GHOST SHRIMP IN THE MUD

A fisherman takes advantage of a minus tide to dig for ghost shrimp in Bolinas Lagoon. The shrimp cost $3 a dozen when bought in bait stores, but 45 minutes of digging will produce enough for a day's fishing. Wearing hip boots, the fisherman yesterday waded to a likely spot and began digging. When the shrimp rose to the surface he picked them out with his hands and tossed them into the bait bucket. Ghost shrimp are among the best bait for striped bass and sturgeon.

SENATORS ARGUE VIET FATE

Bury The Tonkin Policy?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said today renewed enemy assaults in Vietnam "might lengthen" the process of U.S. withdrawal but that the Nixon administration is determined to bring a total end to the American presence.

Asked to explain a statement that U.S. withdrawal is an "irreversible process," Scott said "It is the intention of the government of the United States to continue the process of withdrawal until situations arise which will permit the withdrawal of the entire American presence in Vietnam."

But he specified there was no limit involved and that circumstances such as renewed enemy military activity "might lengthen that process."

Scott urged the committee to adopt a resolution, sponsored by 46 of the 100 senators, that supports President Nixon's efforts to end the war and stresses the need for free Vietnamese elections and a mutual cease-fire. It is similar to a resolution passed overwhelmingly by the House.

After Scott had testified, the committee heard from a battery of war critics, including Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind.

Javits and Pell testified in behalf of a proposal to terminate the Gulf of Tonkin resolution authorizing U.S. military action in Vietnam, to provide for the withdrawal of all American combat forces this year and support forces "in a reasonable time thereafter" and to arrange asylum for South Vietnamese whose lives might be endangered by the U.S. pullout.

Pell suggested that these Vietnamese be resettled in the Malaysian portion of the Island of Borneo, where "the climate and conditions are not too different from those of Vietnam."

The cost of such an operation assuming 250,000 Vietnamese were resettled at a cost of $10,000 each, Pell said, would be

WANTS EXAMPLE SET

Nixon Frowns On Federal Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, calling the federal government "one of the nation's worst polluters," today ordered all federal facilities to eliminate air and water pollution.

He set up a $359 million program for the next three years to provide government leadership in the pollution control effort and called for all existing federal facilities to comply with his clear air and water order by Dec. 31, 1972.

Nixon said his order will affect buildings and installations, public works, aircraft and vessels and vehicles and property owned by or constructed or manufactured for the federal government.

Nixon has proclaimed improvement of the nation's environment as a prime priority of the 1970s.

And, he said in a statement issued at the White House today:

"Over the past several years, the federal government has become one of the nation's worst polluters. Clearly the federal government cannot be an effective leader in the battle to save the environment so long as this intolerable situation continues."

Russell E. Train, Nixon's newly designated chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, said that the Department of Defense is the largest single agency of government involved in pollution problems.

In addition to this latest directive, President Nixon plans to send a message to Congress on his plans for an environmental quality program in the next 10 days, presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Train said $52 million already is included in the President's budget for fiscal 1971, which begins next July 1, for this project. And the President has directed the Department of Defense to make an additional $40 million available for the program in fiscal 1971 for a total of $92 million, Train said.

Tumult Follows Split Secrecy Rules Vote

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO—Several dozen young persons today disrupted and forced the adjournment of the meeting of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District board.

The disruption by shouting and the ringing of a large brass bell came after the board's executive committee failed in a 3-3 vote to abandon the district's policy of suppressing information on firms contributing to industrial air pollution.

Marin's representative, Supervisor George A. Gnoss and San Rafael City Councilman John A. Miskimen, were absent.

The young people, most of them bearded and in hippie garb, identified themselves as the "people air pollution control board."

THREE JUMP UP

Three of them jumped up and, turning their backs to the board, read a statement demanding the district release all data on industrial air pollution.

The board hearing room 939 Ellis Street was jammed with almost 200 persons, most of them young and most of them in support of the demonstration.

Board chairman Laurence Kelly, Piedmont city councilman, adjourned the meeting after gaveling fruitlessly for several minutes.

No special meeting will be called before the board's next regular meeting March 4, he predicted. "There is no sense in trying to meet with a bunch of hoodlums," he said.

POLICE NEXT TIME

The district's chief officer, D. J. Callaghan, told the Independent-Journal that he would see to it that police were present at the boards next meeting.

Board member William R. Jelavich, mayor of Mountain View and the chief proponent of releasing the data, told the crowd "This isn't the way it's going to be done. You're acting like a bunch of young punks," he said.

Jelavich urged unsuccessfully that police be called immediately to clear the room.

As the board members filed ed by shouts from the audience that the 12-man-board should include women, blacks and chicanos.

G.E. Plants Picket Lines Disappearing

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Picket lines began disappearing for the first time in 100 days outside most plants of the General Electric Co. in 135 cities across the nation today, as strike settlements were formalized by the company's two big electrical unions.

It was a happy occasion for many of the 104,500 members of the two unions who were picketing in some of the most frigid weather of the winter.

The AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers, with about 5,000 members in several of its 71 GE locals still not reported, said a membership vote at midmorning showed "about 55,000 for ratification and 17,692 opposed."

Property Taxpayers May Gain Help Through $1 Billion Reform

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan's $1 billion tax reform plan promised today to fulfill past election campaign promises by easing the ever-growing property tax burden on the California homeowner.

It would cut property taxes by as much as 40 per cent for the state's 2.5 million homeowners who have been rebelling more and more against rising tax rates by voting against levy increases and bond issues. To pay for the cuts, Reagan proposed tax boosts including a one per cent increase in the state sales tax.

The Republican governor said his plan, worked out with GOP legislative leaders, is "a broad, fair share" program that not only would cut property taxes, but also hold them down by imposing limits on local government taxing authority.

The cut would be about $200 from the typical $500 tax bill on a $20,000 home, Reagan said in unveiling the plan at a news conference Tuesday.

Many such homeowners are the so-called "forgotten Americans" Reagan has said pay the bulk of government spending. It is this middle income group which voted heavily for Reagan in 1966 and which bore the brunt of his $1 billion tax increase in 1967.

By the time the plan is in full effect, it would give homeowners $502 million in property tax relief; aid renters by $92 million; cut the business inventory tax by $137 million, and relieve counties of $256 million in welfare spending — something that adds to the property tax.

New money would be raised by boosting the sales tax; increasing the bank and financial corporation tax by $53 million; cutting back the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance by $18 million; trimming back $30 million on capital gains tax savings; boosting income taxes by $274 million including the gain from withholding; and $26 million by adopting federal tax reform changes.

One of those federal changes is a minimum tax on the wealthy person who otherwise would get away without paying anything through deductions and loopholes.

Reagan also proposed a redistribution of local school property taxes to make sure that poor school districts would be on a more equal financial footing with wealthy ones.

Success for the program in the legislature, narrowly controlled by Republicans, would be a major boost for Reagan's expected re-election campaign this year. Major tax reform has been a prime goal of his first term in office, but he has been thwarted each year — sometimes from within his own party.

Reagan proposed a one per cent boost in the statewide sales tax, from five per cent to six per cent, as a major means of raising the money needed to compensate local governments

Main Items Of Relief

REDUCTIONS

Homeowners — The current $750 property tax exemptions would rise to $1,000 giving the average homeowner a $200 annual tax cut.

Renters — A $50 tax deduction would be allowed renters file income tax returns, with who file income tax returns, with total canceling of state income taxes of less than $50.

Businesses — The present 30 per cent inventory tax reductions would rise to 50 per cent.

Welfare — The state would pay 70 per cent of welfere costs in each county, after the county paid the first 25 cents on the tax rate for welfare.

INCREASES

Businesses — The bank and corporation tax would rise by one-half of one per cent on July 1, 1972.

Oil — The present 27½ per cent state oil depletion tax break would be cut to from 10 to 15 per cent.

Income — The state would begin withholding personal income taxes on Jan. 1, and income taxes would rise for couples with incomes of $32,000 or more and single persons with $16,000 income or more, on July 1, 1971.

Capital — Taxes on short-term capital gains would go up more than $20 million annually starting July 1.

Technical — Various technical tax changes would increase state revenues by more than $50 million starting in 1971.

Congress Leery; New Education Fund Pitch

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has offered to sweeten the pot by $449 million in his fight with Congress over education funds, but it apparently won't be enough.

Democratic leaders are willing to risk another veto, if necessary, in their effort to force a reshuffling of national priorities that upgrades education.

"It may be necessary to pare it down," said House Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma, "but we're not going to capitulate on the education bill."

Nixon's new proposal, sent to Congress Tuesday makes official a compromise he put forward last week to help get the necessary votes to sustain his veto of a $19.7 billion education-health money bill.

The $449 million Nixon is now willing to spend over his budget amounts to a 63 per cent cut in the $1.2 billion Congress added to the vetoed bill. Some of the key Democrats who helped add the original funds, say they will fight any cut that amounts to more than 10 per cent.

The battle is now being fought in a House appropriations subcommittee where little progress was reported Tuesday after another session. Members said there was only an outside chance that a bill would be

Israeli Military Sources See Cooling In War Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli military sources claim there is less likelihood of a major Middle East war developing now than last summer when air and land battles broke out along the Suez Canal.

These sources regard the Soviet Union's warning to the United States and other Western powers as a ploy designed to buck up Arab morale.

Though concerned about any additional Russian aid to Egypt, they discount the idea that it would impel the Arabs into any major thrust. They also discount the possibility of any direct Soviet intervention in the war.

Despite the re-equipping of the Egyptian army and air force and the guidance of about 3,000 Soviet advisers, the Israelis said, the battles of the past seven months have demonstrated the Egyptians are not ready to undertake any big offensive.

The Israeli military sources claimed the Russians have given Egypt about $2 billion in arms and equipment since the forces of President Gamel Abdel Nasser lost much of their Soviet-provided gear in the six-day war of 1967.

But the Russians haven't yet been able to get the Egyptians to use their weapons and materiel effectively, the Israelis said. They praised the Soviet equipment as first rate.

The Israeli military men indicated both sides have learned from the fighting, which has raged more or less continuously since last July, though on a limited scale. But they sounded confident the advantage still is with their pilots and ground fighters by a wide margin.

The Israelis said the Russians now do most of the operational planning for the Egyptians, as well as manning certain of the sophisticated equipment.

No Russians have flown combat in the Suez Canal air battles, they said. But they indicated a belief that Russians are present in surface-to-air missile sites. This raised the possibility some Soviet advisers could have been killed in Israeli strikes against such sites.

The Israeli military sources implied they are far from impressed by the kind of tactics taught by the Russians to the Egyptians.

In particular, the Israelis criticized the way the Egyptians dispose their armor in static, three-line-deep defenses, in accord with Soviet doctrine.

At the diplomatic level, Soviet notes reportedly warned the United States, Britain and France that the Russians may boost their help for the Arabs unless the Israelis are retrained.

U.C. Turmoil Over Firing Of Professor

SANTA BARBARA (AP)— Extra law enforcement officers patrolled the University of California campus here today as a precaution after an assistant professor appealed for a moratorium on protests over his dismissal.

Anthropologist William L. Allen called for a "24 to 48 hour" halt to demonstrations to allow the school administration to ponder demands he be kept on the faculty and that students be given greater say in the advancement of professors.

His appeal came at an evening rally Tuesday that capped a day of confrontations between protesters and police.

Shortly after noon, about 2,000 protesters marched on the campus Faculty Club, drove out some professors having lunch, and barricaded an access street with patio furniture from the facility.

Later, with Allen in the front, the students marched on the school's administration building, but were met by the officers wearing riot gear and carrying night sticks.

The students — roughly one-seventh of the school's enrollment — locked arms and taunted police, but there was no violence. The students had successfully sealed off the administration building Friday, the second day of demonstrations.

Minor scuffles were reported Tuesday evening as students with loud speakers rallied outside an emergency meeting of the Academic Senate, called to consider Allen's dismissal for failing to meet the university's needs.

WILLIAM L. ALLEN
Calls for moratorium

Allen, 33, garbed in gray felt fedora, light blue work shirt, levis and boots, told the crowd he was dismissed because he failed to keep "social distance from students" and because of his views on the role of U.S. business in Latin American affairs.

U.S. Copters Spot Cong, Stage Kills

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American reconnaissance helicopters spotted 100 North Vietnamese troops moving down a stream bed 21 miles north of Saigon Tuesday night, and 23 were killed by helicopter gunships, bombers and artillery, military spokesmen reported today.

No American casualties were reported, although some of the helicopters drew small-arms and rocket-grenade fire.

Intelligence sources said the troops apparently were from the Dong Nai Regiment, which spearheaded an offensive against Saigon in May 1968 and was badly mauled.

Little other fighting was reported as Tet, the lunar new year holiday, approached. A four-day Viet Cong cease-fire is scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. Thursday—6 p.m. today, EST—and a 24-hour allied truce is to start 11 hours later.

In Hue, President Nguyen Van Thieu said he foresees eventual peace in Vietnam "because we are stronger and the Communists are weaker." Someday, he said, the Viet Cong "will fade away," and the Saigon government will have a "military, political, economic and social victory."

Fiscal Chief Looses Wall Street's Bulls

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, starved for an encouraging word, feasted Tuesday on remarks by Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy indicating that lower interest rates may be just around the corner.

"That happy day may be closer to hand than most people realize," he said in a speech that triggered a rally on Wall Street.

Sluggish until Kennedy's statement reached investors, the market broke loose in heavy trading. The Dow Jones industrial average rocketed from a loss of 3.37 points to a gain of more than 18 and closed ahead 11.02 at 757.46. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange soared to 16.05 million shares.

Kennedy, addressing 300 business executives at a savings bond campaign luncheon, said:

"Once the inflationary psychology is broken and the business community and the public in general begin to look forward to greater stability, interest rates will drop to a more reasonable level and other salutary effects will be felt throughout the economy."

In answer to a later news conference question as to when interest rates would decline, Kennedy said: "I don't have a date."

Monetary restrictions have been named by brokers as the main cause of the market's sharp decline in recent months.

Mexico Quake

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A strong earthquake, believed centered off the southern coast of Mexico east of Acapulco, shook Mexico City tonight. But police said no damage was reported in the capital or in Acapulco.

The Tacubaya Seismological Station said the quake had a force of 6.3 on the Richter scale. Seismologist Lorenzo Dominguez Durguete added in a communique that the center of the quake was 285 miles southeast of Mexico City, probably off the coast of Oaxaca State.

The quake was felt in Mexico City at 11:09 p.m.—12:09 a.m. Wednesday EST. It also was recorded at the University of California seismographic station at Berkeley.

Interpret Pope

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Holland's Roman Catholic bishops interpreted Pope Paul's latest pronouncement on priestly celibacy as an offer to discuss the issue and expressed their appreciation for it Tuesday night.

The eight bishops said they hoped that such consultations would lead to good results.

A brief communique said the Dutch bishops will consider publishing a more detailed comment on the Pope's letter to Vatican Secretary of State Jean Cardinal Villot. The Vatican disclosed the contents of the letter Tuesday.

Some Dutch experts said one section indicated for the first time that Pope Paul VI was trying to avoid a deadlock on the celibacy issue without altering his basic stand. They referred to the Pope's statement that he was willing to consider requests that married men of a "mature age"—or an "advanced age," as the Italian translation of the French text put it—be ordained in areas where there is "an extreme shortage of priests."

Air Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has okayed a 7.5 per cent tax on domestic air travelers.

The tax is designed to help pay for a 10-year, $9 billion program for modernizing airports and airways.

The tax, effective April 1, would be included in the total ticket cost by airlines without exceptions. The levy is expected to bring in $526 million a year by 1971.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, said a bill embracing the total airways program should be ready for floor debate Feb. 16.

Housing Picture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has been told that the outlook for housing this year is still gloomy.

Kenneth M. Wright, chief economist for the Life Insurance Association of America, told congressmen assessing the outlook that money available for mortgages is expected to decline by about $2.5 billion to $25.2 billion.

Housing starts will decline from 1.47 million to 1.3 million, Wright said.

Robert Wood, former Housing Department undersecretary, said that "an apparently implacable inflation" erodes the housing industry.

Lester C. Thurow, an economist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said the $40 billion price tag on necessary housing will require so much federal aid that tax increases will be needed.

Laotian Offer

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian government has offered to adopt a "hands-off" policy toward the Ho Chi Minh Trail if North Vietnam will withdraw its troops from around the Plain of Jars, informed sources reported today.

Foreign Minister Khampan Panya made the proposal Tuesday in a 30-minute meeting with North Vietnamese Charge d'Affaires Vu Tien. Tien said he would transmit the proposal to Hanoi at once.

The Laotian official proposed that fighting on the plain stop, that North Vietnamese forces be withdrawn and that the area be left to neutralist forces—meaning both pro-government and dissident neutralist troops.

In return, he said, the government would disregard North Vietnamese activity on the Ho Chi Minh Trail and leave it to the United States and North Vietnam.

Border Trouble

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet troops along the 1,300-mile border with China have been ordered to increase combat readiness, the Soviet news arency Tass rported today.

A brief dispatch from Alma Ata, the capital of Kazakhstan, said a Communist party conference of the Central Asian Military District resolved "to increase combat preparedness of improve in every possible way the party political work."

10-Year-Old Novato Girl Killed By Gun

A 10-year-old Novato girl died yesterday of a gunshot wound in her head after she was accidentally shot by her next door neighbor, an 11-year-old boy, who was playing with his mother's gun.

The victim was Diane Lynn Johnson, duaghter of Glenn and Frieda Johnson of 2224 Center Road, who died after being shot by James Hudson of 2214 Center Road.

Lt. Harvey Teague of the sheriff's juvenile division said that the Hudson boy had apparently come home from school early yesterday and had taken a .25-caliber German automatic pistol from a shoe bag in his mother's bedroom.

He also apparently got out a clip for the gun from another pocket of the shoe bag.

Teague said that young Hudson then went outside and fired the gun into the ground, attracting the attention of Diane and her 5-year-old sister, Dawn. They accompanied the boy into his house where he sat on his bed and the girls stood in the doorway.

The boy removed the clip and thought he had put on the safety latch, Teague said, but when he got up from the bed, the gun went off, the bullet striking Diane under the left eye.

She was pronounced dead at Novato General Hospital.

Teague said that the shooting which occurred about 2:45 p.m., is still under investigation.

Diane, a student at West Novato School, was born in San Rafael, and lived all her life in Marin. In addition to her parents and Dawn, she is survived by three other sisters, Mrs. Christine Osburn of Japan, Mrs. Dolores Keading of Okinawa, and April, of the family home, and a brother, Robert, also of Novato.

Private burial will be Friday in the family plot in a Fort Bragg cemetery.

Rifle Mishap Kills Valley Ford Boy, 10

A 10-year-old Valley Ford boy was accidentally shot to death last night by his older brother.

Robert Merle Nelson was pronounced dead on arrival at Hillcrest Hospital at 10:47 p.m. Sonoma County Coroner Andrew Johansen said Robert had been shot under the right armpit by a .22-caliber rifle.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christopher K. Nelson Sr., of School Street, said they had sent Robert and his brother, Christopher Jr., 13, to clean their room.

Christopher said he found a shell on the floor and loaded it into the rifle. Thinking the safety was latched, Christopher pointed the gun around the room and it discharged in the direction of his brother.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be in Liberty Cemetery.

SENATE

$2.5 billion "or the cost of running the war for one month."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, is also a supporter of the back-Nixon resolution.

"Senate approval of this resolution will show the world that we are united in our search for peace," he said.

The committee's hearing opened Tuesday with blasts from four war critics and a reply by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew that the opponents were "casting about aimlessly" for a political issue.

Agnew told newsmen the people are behind the administration's Vietnamization policy "and no amount of self serving statements by opposition senators are going to change that."

Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on the committee, said the political benefits from the new round of hearings on Vietnam "will be very slight in the long run."

"So long as there is a steady reduction in the personnel and casualties," Aiken said in an interview, "it will be an uphill job to make a political issue of it. But some of the boys are trying."

One war critic testifying Tuesday, Sen. Harold E. Hughes, charged the administration had coerced the news media to bring about a "national euphoria" concerning the war.

"First you pistol whip the news media, and then you commandeer it for political purposes," Hughes said.

The Iowa Democrat later confirmed he was referring to critical remarks Agnew made last fall about news media. Hughes said the vice president's remarks had the effect of "calming down" coverage of opposition to the war.

Biologist Will Talk Tonight On Ecology, Hunger

John Thomas, Stanford University biology professor, will be keynote speaker tonight at the third lecture in a series on the population explosion. Tonight's topic will be "Ecology—People—Hunger."

The lecture will start at 8:15 at Olney Hall, College of Marin.

A panel discussion is planned with panelists Peter Behr, former Marin supervisor; Steven McNamara, publisher of the Pacific Sun; Rev. George Carter, pastor of Mill Valley Methodist Church; Clifford Humphries, director of Ecology Action of Berkeley, and Mrs. Richard J. Havel, member of Marin ecology groups.

The series is sponsored by the college and by the Planned Parenthood Auxiliary of Marin. Fourth and last lecture will be Feb. 11 when Martin G. Blinder, psychiatrist, will speak on "Marriage and Marital Con-

Other funds to make up the $1 billion would come primarily by loophole closing and increased levies on business and wealthy persons, including a personal income tax hike for couples in the $32,000-and-over bracket.

A big surprise was Reagan's decision, made at the last minute, to go for withholding of the state personal income tax as one means of raising more revenue and speeding up state tax collections.

He once was so much against withholding he said he would sign such a bill only "if they held a hot iron to my feet and I was bound hand and foot."

Reagan said he still opposes payroll deductions of income taxes, but chose it in preference to other tax increases as a means of financing the plan.

The governor often has been chided as having his "feet in concrete" on the issue, his opposition to withholding was so strong.

As he announced his turnaround Tuesday he chuckled, "That sound you hear is the concrete cracking around my feet."

The only other state with an income tax which does not have paycheck withholding — and there are 38 that do — is North Dakota.

of the people rather than the profits of industry."

The demonstration started before the full board could vote on the proposed release of information on industrial pollution.

The effect of the executive committee's 3-3 vote was to refer the proposal to the full board without a recommendation.

AS the board members filed out of the room, the demonstrators convened their own meeting, which continued noisely for some time.

Kelly, during the executive committee debate on releasing the information, termed the proposal "ridiculous" saying, "We'd just spend a lot of time and manpower to put together a list that will have no meaning to 99.9 per cent of the people anyway. That's the only reason we don't publish them."

Santa Clara County supervisor Victor Calvo, also a proponent of releasing the information, said, "Well if they have no meaning, why don't we publish them?"

Jelavich said the district's policy of suppressing the information had needlessly discredited the district a great deal.

Jelavich said the present policy makes the district "a buffer for industry, I'm not going to sit here as a buffer for anyone."

The Citizens' Against Air Pollution, a San Jose based group, has threatened court action to force the district to release the information. The citizens' group wants the district to release reports showing what pollutants are emitted and by what industrial firms.

Barry Keene To Try For Assembly

Santa Rosa attorney Barry Keene announced today that he will seek the Democratic nomination for the assembly seat for the Second District, now held by Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka.

Keene, 31, is a trustee of the Rincon Valley School District, Santa Rosa, and is a former deputy district attorney for Sonoma County.

The Second District Assembly seat represents a large portion of Sonoma County including Rohnert Park and Cotati as well as Humboldt and Mendocino counties. Belotti has said he will seek reelection.

Keene, a Democrat, served for five years as an intern and consultant with the Assembly Committee on Criminal Procedure, the Natural Resources Committee and the Joint Legislative Committee on Constitutional Revision.

A graduate of Stanford University, he received his law degree there and is an associate in the Santa Rosa law firm of De Meo, De Meo, Foster and Waner. He and his wife, Lucie, have two sons and two daughters.

Keene said the top priorities of the campaign would be tax reform, more state funds for schools and the prevention of further loss of public access to state beaches and tidelands.

Home Burglary Pair Convicted

A Marin Superior Court jury deliberated only about an hour yesterday before finding two Marin City men, Donald Ray Turner, 20, and Morlin Smith, 22, guilty of the burglary of a Larkspur residence Sept. 30.

Judge Harold J. Haley remanded the pair to custody of the sheriff and set sentencing for Feb. 17.

Turner and Smith were arrested along with a 17-year-old youth after a high speed chase through three cities, according to police.

The officers reported that Turner and Smith jumped out of a car driven by Kenny Ray White, also of Marin City, and were captured fleeing on foot in Larkspur. White was arrested by Mill Valley police after his car smashed head-on into another vehicle in Mill Valley.

White has since been committed to the California Youth Authority.

HEW

In a letter outlining his new proposal Nixon said the extra $449 million "does not contribute unduly to inflationary pressures which today are of serious concern to the entire nation." He vetoed the $1.2 billion increase because of its impact on inflation.

Nearly half the added funds—$238 million—would be for the impacted area aid program which Nixon has sharply criticized and for which he has declined to budget any money for next year unless it is drastically revised. His new proposal would increase the appropriation for this year to $440 million.

The program, which provides funds for school districts in which large numbers of children of federal employes are enrolled, has wide support in Congress. A total of $600 million was provided for in the vetoed bill.

Nixon would also boost spending for vocational education by $70 million to a new total of $300 million, still $52 million short of the amount in the bill. The other Nixon increases would be spread over a variety of health and education programs.

Stokes returned Tuesday night from Detroit, where he made a personal investigation into allegations by an attorney that Ellenberg had shared in bribe money while an officer on the Detroit police force.

Ellenburg, 50, had retired after 27 years on the Detroit police force. He was safety director at Grosse Pointe Park, a Detroit suburb, before being named to the Cleveland chief's job.

Weigh Station Truck Signals Contract Given

The signs will carry two messages, "Scales Closed" or "All Trucks Stop at Scales," and the job has been scheduled for 100 working days.

The department also reported it has advertised for bids for improving channelization from Highway 101 to westbound Shoreline Highway. Bids are to be opened March 11, and about $38,000 is available for the job.

Under present channelization, westbound motorists from Highway 101 have difficulty determining in which direction eastbound drivers from Shoreline Highway plan to proceed at a Y-shaped intersection, north of Sausalito.

Tax Hike Looms In Reed District

Reed School District trustees were advised last night — amid doubts as to whether the new Reedland Woods School should open in the fall — to call for a general purpose tax rate increase ballot June 2 to meet an expected 1970-1 deficit.

The recommendation came from the board's finance committee, which saw little hope gaining any revenue from sources other than local taxes.

The amount of the proposed tax rate hike wasn't set, but committee chairman Stanley Breitbard suggested it cover the deficit, estimated at $179,000.

Breitbard said the committee concluded calling an election was "the only feasible alternative" to depleting the reserve and hoping for funds from elsewhere or reducing expenditure.

Vargas said Reedland Woods School should be opened only "if one or more of the other schools in the district are closed in oredr to offset the additional costs."

He felt the district plant was already overbuilt, and it might be possible to eliminate Tiburon and Belvedere schools.

"I would refrain from granting the proposed salary increases other than would normally occur under the existing step and track program," he said.

"The many innovative educational methods introduced in the district have never been fully accepted by the people because they have never been independently evaluated and proven worthy of their extra cost" Vargas said.

As evidence, he contended, that school enrollment hasn't grown as rapidly as expected while population in the area has increased, and enrollment at parochial and other private schools "has grown prodigiously."

Breitbard advised trustees that the filing deadline for the June 2 election is March 13, giving them only a short time to reach a decision on an election.

He estimated the deficit would approach $200,000.

Discussion centered on the opening of Reedland Woods School, a middle school, expected to increase expenditures from $125,000 to $150,000.

Trustee Kenneth G. Wells, citing the expected enrollment increase of 14 to 41 pupils in the district, wondered whether the district needed to open Reedland Woods School.

Trustees later formed a committee, consisting of the entire board and faculty, administrators and standing committee members to study opening Reedland Woods School, and set a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Bel Aire School. Trustee Thomas S. Price dissented.

Chairman Leo Souza said: "I think it would be a tragedy if we didn't open Reedland Woods School."

Supt. Robert B. Gaw said if Reedland Woods School wasn't open Del Mar School would be very crowded, and a resident noted that not opening it would be just postponing the expenditure.

Trustee James B. Richwagen felt that more extensive budget study was needed before making decisions. Also, Wells asked Souza, "you're not asking us to buy a pig in a poke in a $2 million budget?"

Souza replied that Gaw would present a "balanced budget," Feb. 17 including Reedland Woods School, but not teacher pay raises.

Richwagen balked that "in five weeks, the most important decisions of the school year" had to be reached.

Newsletter Started By Trustees

The Reed School District board has started issuing a newsletter intitled, "Reed Board Report Card."

Copies were available at last night's board session, and trustee Kenneth G. Wells, the board's communications chairman described the newsletter "as the first attempt to bring a little information about what the board has done."

Wells suggested that copies be mailed to parents "to offset some discrediting information" that has been sent to newspapers.

Chairman Leo Souza suggested that the newsletters be sent home with pupils, rather than by mailing, and Wells offered to pay the cost, estimated at $90.

Trustees then approved the mailing by a 4-1 vote with Souza dissenting.

The introductory paragraph of the newsletter said:

"The present school board is well aware of the fact that communication between the school district, parent and/or taxpayer, and the business community has been lacking in the past and hopes to correct this condition through the periodic issuance material of this nature."

The Reed School District Board also:

READING TESTS — Heard a report from Supt. Robert B. Gaw that preliminary results of comprehensive testing of basic skills indicate that students scored at the national norms, with reading and arithmetic in the upper percentiles.

AUDIT REPORT — Accepted the 1968-69 auditing report from Leader, Jarvis and Keigwin, with comment that the district which had been engaged in deficit financing, is not during the current fiscal year.

CLUB CONTRIBUTION — Accepted as a gift the $250 spent by Belvedere Unit of the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club toward playground improvements at Belvedere School.

CUSTODIAN — Approved hiring of George Hooper as custodian at Reed School at a salary of $507 a month.

COMPLAINT — Got a complaint from parents that a teacher's aide coerced their child regarding report card option for grades, and agreed to hear the complaint in closed session. Souza read the letter at open session, and then apologized after there was a protest against airing charges at open session.

Guilty Plea Made To Weed Possession

Jerry Lee Urban, 27, of Terra Linda, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of possessing marijuana at his home Jan. 7. He was ordered to appear in superior court Monday for setting of a sentencing date on the felony charge.

Urban was arrested after drug agents received a tip that drugs were being used there.

Reed Residents Plan New Watchdog Panel

Reed School District residents, alarmed at recent events, called on the district board last night to act to reduce the level of conflict among factions in the district.

The plea, laced with criticism of board action, came in the opening minutes of the session, which attracted a standing-room audience of more than 200 persons.

It was in the aftermath of a recent bitter squabble over the report card method to be used by the district, and the Reed District Teachers Association's vote of "no confidence" of the board.

Trustees had barely settled down for a long evening's work when Richard L. Goff of 310 Karen Way announced that a new committee is being formed . . . the Citizens Committee to Save Reed District Schools.

Goff then read a statement he said had been signed by 400 persons, who "are seriously alarmed by recent actions and attitudes of trustees and others, which are impairing the morale and effectiveness of our school staffs."

These actions and attitudes "are polarizing relationships between the board, administrators, teachers and parents," Goff read. "Hostility and distrust are replacing the constructive cooperation that made Reed District a success in the past."

The time, effort and money spent in the district over many years could be destroyed in a short time, Goff warned.

The committee is being formed because of "widespread and growing community concern," and it proposes "to serve as a moderating influence to reduce tensions and restore good will among all persons concerned with our schools."

The statement asked trustees to:

"1. Approach all issues in a spirit of cooperation and good faith consultation with teachers, administrators, parents and voters, with serious consideration for their recommendations and opinions.

"2. Refrain from dictating educational policies and practices in disregard of the competence, experience and judgement of our administrative staff and teachers and of citizens who have long been involved in district affairs.

"3. Refrain from reaching decisions by agreements or discussions not taking place in public meetings; to inform the community adequately of all their actions and the reasons for them.

"4. Act with decency and respect — not insult or intimidation — toward teachers, administrators, fellow board members and voters who speak out at meetings or elsewhere, regardless of the views they express.

"5. Recognize that the role of trustees is not to impose particular 'pet' educational methods and philosophies nor represent just one segment of voters, but to foster the educational welfare of all children in the district."

IT also requested teachers and their organizations to "exercise maximum reasonableness and restraint in a difficult situation."

Trustees didn't speak to the matters brought up in the statement, but Robert D. Hayes of 45 Rolling Hills Road, challenged it.

He said it failed in its expressed intent to be moderate by imploying that certain board members didn't conduct business in public.

Trustees also received a proposal from the Reed District Parent-Teacher Club that it hire a consultant, versed in communication problems.

Another Wants Rafferty's Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chief of Sacramento State College's educational opportunity program says he's a candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

Frank Navarrette, 38, said Tuesday incumbent Max Rafferty's ideas are outdated. "We need a complete educational rethink in California," he said.

Navarrette, noting his Mexican-American background, said he attended 11 different elementary schools while working as a migrant child laborer. He also attended five California colleges and universities before graduating from Fresno State in public administration and economics.

Fire Board Session

Rules and regulations will be discussed at a special meeting of the Kentfield Fire District board tonight at 8 p.m. in the firehouse, Chief Kenneth T. Kamp has announced.

Instant Thaw For Novato Moratorium

The Novato City Council last night turned down any moratorium on new building while the downtown study is being completed, but it did ask for an emergency interim ordinance to require use permits for all new buildings for six months.

The vote against the moratorium was 3-2 with Councilmen Douglas M. Merrill and Joseph Gargiulo dissenting. This was proposed for three months only for property fronting on highway 101.

The vote to have the emergency ordinance on use permits prepared for next Tuesday's council meeting was 5-0.

This will require use permits in the commercial zone for such businesses as banks, general merchandise stores, professional and personal services. These are now allowed without a use permit, according to Planning Director Brian W. Mattson.

At a special meeting Monday, the Novato Chamber of Commerce board voted against any moratorium. George A. Barnwell, president of the chamber and member of the Downtown Study Committee, read the chamber resolution to the joint meeting of the council, planning commission and downtown committee.

Paul A. Otais Jr., planning commissioner, pointed out that Barnwell made the original motion in the downtown study committee favoring the moratorium. Barnwell said that he did not vote for the chamber motion.

Thomas Cooke of Sedway and Cooke, planners making the federally assisted downtown study, made a plea for a moratorium so that his firm would have an unhindered period to complete the study by July 15.

He asked for a three-to-six-month suspension of all building in the downtown study area from the Northwestern Pacific Railroad on the east, Atherton Avenue on the north, Rowland Boulevard on the south and Eighth Street on the west.

Theodore R. Schuman who spearheaded the Monday chamber meeting, said that if developers heard that Novato had frozen all business, it would discourage them for many years to come.

Xavier University at New Orleans is the only predominantly Negro Catholic university in the United States.

Sewer Bond Ballot On Cotati Agenda

The Cotati City Council will consider a $100,000 bond election for sewer improvements at its meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Cotati Fire Hall.

The bonds would finance new sewer lines and a connection with the Rohnert Park sewage plant. The election is expected to be held April 14. The Cotati sewage plant had been placed under a cease and desist order by the state.

Night accidents resulted in slightly more than half the highway deaths in 1968.

LIMELIGHTS A SWEATY PLACE

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, wipes sweat from his face after presenting a lengthy explanation of Gov. Ronald Reagan's tax reform proposals. He appeared at Reagan's press conference late yesterday along with the governor and Senate president pro tem Howard Way, R-Exeter (right). Bagley will carry the tax reform passage through the Legislature as chairman of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee. (See stories on page 1.)

City, School Rec Funding Is Debated

San Rafael Mayor C. Paul have to be eliminated from the Bettini warned last night that activities costing $25,000 might city's community recreation program unless the San Rafael Board of Education continued to underwrite them.

Speaking before a meeting of representatives of the board of education, the city council and the city parks and recreation commission at city hall, the mayor said the city probably would have to make the cuts if the board discontinued its annual $25,000 contribution.

Bettini said the board for 17 years had helped finance the programs on school grounds after school and on weekends, but that the board's share had declined from an original 50 per cent to 16.5 per cent in 1969-70.

The board has informed the city that it cannot support the program in 1970-71.

The cuts would affect summer and after-school programs at 14 elementary schools costing $7,200; summer, after-school and Saturday programs at three junior high schools costing $5,600; and summer, afternoon, evening and Saturday programs at San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools costing $5,600.

Also affected would be day camp, general teen, and youth athletic and sports programs costing $8,400. Activities of the 145-member San Rafael Swim Club also would be cut back.

There was general agreement that the activities should be maintained; at issue was the source of the money.

Board of education member John C. Pfeiffer said he thought the city should pay since, "we're in the education business, not the recreation business." Fellow board member Carl J. Brown agreed.

Before the meeting, five Marinwood, Lucas Valley and Terra Linda residents said they wanted more of the recreation funds spent in their communities.

Terra Linda Recreation Director Larry Husband, said residents of these areas are taxed by the San Rafael schools but the recreational program does not operate there.

The mayor said children from these areas could participate in programs at schools where activities were maintained, and suggested they talk with the board of education on the matter.

Safe Or No, Sausalito Plans Bicycle Paths

By PAT ANGLE

The Sausalito City Council, already burdened with the problem of how to clear city streets choked by auto traffic, shouldered another transportation problem last night by laying out a bicycle route through the city.

After lengthy discussion the council, spurred on by enthusiastic cyclists in the audience, agreed to post a system of bicycle route signs, even though the designated path is fraught with safety problems.

Mrs. T. Howell Breece told councilmen the signs "would start educating motorists to be cautious" and urged the city began such an educational program as soon as possible.

The proposed route would begin at the south city limits, down Alexander Avenue to Second Street, then onto Richardson Avenue and down Bridgeway to the north city limits.

Greatest safety problem, according to Police Chief James Wright, is Alexander Avenue with its heavy traffic and steep grades. Another problem on Alexander is a house which encroaches onto the city street right-of-way, Councilman Robin Sweeny said.

The council agreed to refer the safety problems to the city attorney, engineer and recreation department to see what can be done to alleviate them.

Councilman Wyman Hicks warned the cyclists that, in putting up the signs, the city is not saying the route is safer than any other route.

The council began by discussing a sidewalk bicycle path but, after considering the problems of bicycles versus pedestrians, decided on an on-street route.

On steep grades and particularly dangerous areas, the council decided to post "Walk Bicycle" signs to help cut down on some of the hazards.

Encouragement to "start moving" on the route came in the form of two petitions containing 328 signatures.

Another consideration brought up by several youngsters who attended the meeting was the problem of Sausalito teen-agers riding bicycles to Tamalpais High School, since some youngsters have no other way to get to classes.

John Livingston, 15, a sophomore at the school, who was hit by a car last year while on his bike, told the council the state Division of Highways has indicated it would be willing to put in a concrete bicycle path from the heliport to the north city limits, as soon as the city takes action to "fill in the missing link."

He also asked the council to think about the problem of fast traffic and lack of crosswalks in the northern part of Sausalito.

Mrs. James McCarthy, after hearing from Chief Wright that Sausalito had only three bicycle accidents last year, drew applause when she suggested the city ban the automobile and turn the streets over to bicyclists.

Bagley Seeks Taxpayer Credit Plan

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SACRAMENTO — A bill providing taxpayers with automatic credit for excess contributions for unemployment disability insurance has been introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley,R-San Rafael.

Persons entitled to a refund would receive a credit on their personal income tax rather than having to file a claim for refund with the Department of Human Resources. The bill's provisions would be effective next Jan. 1.

Bagley also introduced a bill to authorize a regional center for the mentally retarded in Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties under the Lanterman Mental Retardation Act of 1969.

Regional centers are slated for health planning areas throughout the state, but funds for a center in this tri-county area normally would not be available this year. Bagley asked that $175,000 be appropriated.

Marinites can commute to the San Francisco center, Bagley said, but the existing center was too far for the three northern counties.

The center would provide outpatient care, counseling, referrals to special treatment facilities, and screening for admission to state hospitals.

Babe Silva Will Seek Third Term

Councilman Babe Silva will run for a third term on the Novato City Council, he announced today.

His term and that of Mayor Harley A. McAskill end April 14. McAskill has said he, too, would seek reelection.

Silva, 64, was born in Marinwood, but grew up in Novato, He attended St. Mary's College and the University of California at Davis. He played professional baseball with the St. Louis Browns after college. He worked for the Borden Co. until retiring two years ago.

He has always been active in civic affairs and for many years worked for Little League in Novato. He has been an active member of the volunteer firemen. He is a member of the Novato Grove of Druids, San Rafael Elks Club, Novato Rotary Club and Novato Chamber of Commerce.

He and his wife, Marion, have two sons, Michael of Novato, and Frank of the home at 837 Sweetser Avenue.

"I have discussed running for the supervisor's seat left vacant by Supervisor William A. Gnoss of the Fifth District. The support for my candidacy for supervisor's seat was overwhelming." Silva said.

"I feel that there is a greater need for my continued services to the City of Novato, which is still my first love. I have had a great deal to do with many of the projects that have been completed and many projects now in the formative stages. I feel that I should remain with the city to help the city finalize these important projects," he said.

He listed such projects as city street improvement, recreation and planning.

Aviation Panel Seeks Unity On Base Plans

Marin aviation commissioners decided last night they should work together instead of bickering over how to go about applying for joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base facilities.

Commissioners appointed Richard P. Nave and Herbert M. Hanson to review all sides of the controversy and bring in a recommendation for united action.

Some of the commissioners want to send a delegation of Marin officials to Washington, D. C., to meet with Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, and Air Force officials to ask for civilian use of Hamilton for commercial and general aviation.

Others, particularly Benjamin R. Ostlind, former aviation commissioner, contend that Marin should apply directly to Hamilton officials, who will forward the request to Washington.

On Jan. 27, Ostlind told the Marin County Board of Supervisors that civilian leaders in the Pentagon are far ahead of the Air Force in planning for joint use of military airfields.

Calling for unity, Chairman Ray W. Foreaker Jr. declared that the aviation commission is advisory to the county supervisors and should abide by the decisions of the supervisors.

Regardless of what happens at Hamilton, the county's primary aim should be to develop Gnoss Field to its maximum, said Foreaker.

Airport Manager Francis E. Torr reported that Gnoss Field now has 94 planes, 81 single engine and 13 twin engine craft.

In-Depth Study On Rebuilding Of Levees Urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Legislature was urged Tuesday by State Water Resources Director William R. Gianelli to authorize an in-depth study for rebuilding levees in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta.

His recommendation came in a report filed with the legislature, which had asked the Department of Water Resources to make a preliminary survey of delta levees.

The report said many levees have deteriorated to a point that they are no longer preventing floods. It noted last year's heavy rains caused $3 million in flood damage in the delta.

Gianelli said along with rebuilding levees, the study should recommend multi-purpose uses they could serve by strategic planning, such as for recreation, navigation and vehicular transportation in addition to flood control.

Egyptian Jets Stage Attacks

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian warplanes crossed the Suez Canal twice today to attack Israeli positions north and south of Ismailia, the Israeli military command said. A spokesman said there were no casualties in either raid.

He reported two planes hit a position south of Ismailia on the Small Bitter Lake and an hour later two more planes struck at Firdan, north of Ismailia.

After the first raid, Cairo Radio said the bombers returned safely after "fully accomplishing their mission." It did not elaborate.

The first federal beer tax was levied in 1862 to help finance the Union armies in the Civil War.

Beautification Panel Elects

Gail Wilhem has been re-elected chairman, and Gregory Graham, chairman pro-tem of the Novato Beautification Committee.

The committee Monday approved asking homeowners along Novato Boulevard to take care of redwoods and red oaks to be planted by the city. These trees will replace the Monterey pines when they are removed by the widening of the street.

It adjourned to a joint meeting with the city council at 8 p.m. Feb. 17 at the Novato Community House.

First Step Is Taken On Bike Path Link

Marin took the first legal step yesterday to get an easement over a 900-foot strip of Northwestern Pacific Railroad land for a bicycle-pedestrian path connecting Sausalito with Mill Valley.

On a motion by Michael Wornum, the Marin County Board of Supervisors voted 4 to 0 to condemn or acquire a strip from Gate 6 area to the county heliport as a "terminable easement." William A. Gnoss was away on a business trip to Los Angeles.

The cost of such an easement should be nominal, said County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, because the easement can be terminated anytime the railroad decides to sell or develop the land.

However, he forewarned the supervisors not to expect quick possession of the strip of land because the railroad will probably fight it in court.

Since the state Division of Highways will not allow bicycles or pedestrains on the highway right-of-way, there is no legal access from Sausalito to Mill Valley, said Wornum. He said open land between the rails and the bay is physically usable in its present form for bicycles and pedestrians. He said a chain link fence between the rail line and the easement would safeguard pedestrians and cyclists.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

KAPPAS FILL — Voted 4 to 0 to deny an application by George Kappas to place additional fill on his yacht harbor property at Waldo Point.

STATE PARK BOND — Asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to restore to the 1970-71 state budget the $4,490,000 earmarked for park projects statewide. The funds, voted by the people in 1964, includes $69,650 for development of Stafford Lake in Novato.

SOUTH SAN PEDRO ROAD — Extended for two years an agreement with San Rafael to develop South San Pedro Road Phase 4 to Riviera Drive.

ELECTRIC PLANTS — Endorsed a proposal by the state Public Utilities Commission that the PUC require stricter control on construction of electric generating plants to safeguard environment such as air, water, natural resources and esthetics.

PERSONNEL — Hired Robert Guelfi, James C. Chaille and Blake M. Ussery as sheriff's deputies at $660 per month to fill new positions; Patrick J. Molloy and Patricia M. Hartman, group conselors at juvenile hall, at $781 each, and Richard D. Hammond, half-time teacher assistant in the children's center pre-school program, at $204.

MENTAL HEALTH BOARD — Appointed James R. Prest to complete the three-year term to 1972 of Dr. Gerald Hill, who resigned, on the Mental Health Advisory Board.

FAMILY COMMITTEE — Named Thomas A. Beyer, president of the Marin County Labor Council, to the family and children's advisory committee, and W. Robert Lomax Jr., executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, an alternate member of the committee.

PROBATION — Deferred action on a request for two additional deputy probation officer positions until more information is obtained on a municipal court procedure established by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein in December, by which all drunken driving cases are referred to the probation department for investigation and a written pre-sentence report. The procedure has produced an increase in the probation department's workload.

STOLEN ITEMS — Transferred $566 from the reserve for contingencies fund to replace items stolen from the basement level of the Civic Center where they were stored awaiting delivery to various departments.

AUTOPSIES — Deferred approval of a new agreement with Dr. John H. Manwaring, who performs autopsies for the coroner's office, which would have increased his fees 22 per cent. The board requested a study of autopsy fees in surrounding counties.

LIBRARIES — Tabled until budget hearings a request by the Mill Valley Library Association backed by 1,300 signatures that the board reimburse the Mill Valley Library for services to non-residents of the city. Letters from the Mill Valley mayor and chamber of commerce favored the proposal. The Corte Madera City Council and the Mariner Cove Improvement Association oppose it.

FORESTRY — Named a three-member committee to represent the county at the Redwood District Forest Practice Committee meeting Feb. 9-10 in Redwood City. The meeting will review local forest practice regulations in Marin, San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties.

KEY-TAPE — Approved an agreement with National Cash Register Co. for the installation of a key-tape device for the data processing department at a rental of $189 per month. Funds were allocated in the 1969-70 budget.

FLOOD CLAIM — Rejected the claim of Juan Ferrer, 20 Manzanita Drive, San Rafael, that mud and water damage to his home on Dec. 20, 1969, was the result of county negligence for not maintaining a clear drain system.

A Wrangle On Waterway Ordinance

Should Marin's new tidal waterways ordinance to control filing and building on shorelines apply to bay waters, which are already under control of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission?

Marin County Board of Supervisors wrangled over that question until 6:30 p.m. yesterday and decided to postpone a decision until 4 p.m. March 3.

Chairman John F. McInnis insisted that the new ordinance should be worded so that it would apply only to the ocean shoreline, which is not under BCDC jurisdiction.

"If we include the BCDC area (bay shoreline), it would require our staff to study and prepare reports and the planning commission to hold hearings, only to be duplicated by BCDC," said McInnis. He called it an overlap of effort and a waste of taxpayers' money.

Supervisors Michael Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. argued that any development along bay waters would have to be studied by the planning staff anyway before it goes to BCDC.

In fact, said Wornum, if BCDC rules were incorporated in the Marin ordinance and made to apply along the bay shoreline, developers would know from the outset what the BCDC requirements are and would be less likely to be shuttled back and forth between the county planning commission and the bay commission.

"We're going to have duplication anyway," said Wornum. "It then becomes a philosophical question—Are we interested in our own shoreline or do we rely entirely on BCDC."

The county still retains authority over density and the variety of uses, replied McInnis. The percentage of fill and effect on shoreline can be left to BCDC, he argued.

Mary Donnelly, representing the Marin Conservation League, and the League of Women Voters argued the supervisors to adopt the ordinance and have it apply to the entire county. So did planning commissioners Margaret Azevedo and Hugh Dougherty, and Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

"Individual Marin citizens should have the right to be heard at hearings here," said Mrs. Donnelly. "If the only hearing were before BCDC, we'd have to go over there (San Francisco.)"

Supervisor Louis H. Baar asked for a delay on the ordinance so that his constituents in West Marin can get an explanation of how the new ordinance will affect their area. He said he would set a meeting somewhere in West Marin, probably on Feb. 19, for him and the planning staff to take maps and explain how the ordinance would apply.

The proposed new ordinance would control filling or building on all tidal waterways which are below an elevation of 7.5 feet mean lower low water and within 100 feet inland from the elevation line.

Normand H. Traverso, executive manager of the Marin Property Owners Association, once again blasted the language of the new ordinance, charging that too many "don'ts" are placed on the developer.

Valley Citizens Want Light Near Lagunitas School

San Geronimo Valley Association has voted to request the Board of Supervisors to place a street light and manually operated traffic light at the intersection near the Lagunitas School.

They want the lights placed on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard across from Meadow Way to mark the turnoff to the Lagunitas School auditorium, secretary Mary Bocchetti reported yesterday.

The association agreed Monday to join Lagunitas School trustees in requesting the manually operated traffic light for the school children, Mrs. Bocchetti said.

The group also voted to ask the supervisors to consider the possibility of rebuilding the Forest Knolls Bridge because of it flooding every year, she added.

Marinwood Center Plans Snow Outings

Ski trips departing from the center to Donner Summit at 5 a.m. have been scheduled for Feb. 7, Feb. 14, March 14, and April 4. Free ski instruction is offered by the center.

Action Asked On Fee Schedule, Use Policy For New Auditorium

Marin County supervisors yesterday asked the county administrator to draw up a fee schedule and use policy for the new auditorium at the Civic Center but held up action on hiring Leon G. Kalimos as a department head to run the auditorium.

Supervisors want more information on Kalimos' background and experience in fair management and also asked for a similar resume on the background of Marcelle McCoy, manager of the Marin County Fair.

County Administrator Alan Bruce suggested that a new Marin Memorial Department of county government be created, with Kalimos as department head and Mrs. McCoy as assistant to manage the fair.

"I'd like to see Mr. Kalimos' background and past record," said Supervisor Louis H. Baar. He said Mrs. McCoy should also be considered for the post, along with Kalimos.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said he respects Mrs. McCoy's ability, "but there's a serious question in my mind on whether she is in a position to handle both the management of the auditorium and the county fair."

"I cannot see at this time or in the near future making him (Kalimos) a department head over both the auditorium and the fair," declared chairman John F. McInnis. "I don't think he knows any more about fairs than I do."

He described Mrs. McCoy as a "person of proven ability."

"I for one would not approve putting Mrs. McCoy under Mr. Kalimos at this time."

The County Administrator also suggested that the word "Veterans" be deleted from the name Veterans Memorial Auditorium, and the name be changed to "Marin Memorial."

"We were looking for a short alliterative name for advertising purposes," explained Bruce. He suggested that the word "auditorium" be eliminated for brevity and because the auditorium is more like a concert hall or theater.

Baar wanted to know why "veterans" should be deleted if the original money for the auditorium was veterans' money.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the money for the auditorium was accumulated over a 30-year period from property taxes plus state pari-mutuel funds.

Supervisors Arrigoni and Michael Wornum said they have no objection to the shorter name, "Marin Memorial." They said the name should be representative of all Marin, not a specific group.

A $10,987 profit was earned by the 1969 Marin County Fair, Michael Mitchell, county auditor-controller, reported to the supervisors yesterday.

The cost of the fair was $110,969, Mitchell reported, and the state apportionment of $58,500 and operating revenue of $63,456 totaled $121,956 revenue.

The major source of operating revenue was the admission charge which totaled $45,665 and represented 30,859 paid admissions.

Mitchell said there were 1,532 entries in floriculture, horticulture, arts and photography, and a total of $14,891 was paid out in cash premiums to exhibitors.

Hub Homeowners Eye Span Policy

The directors of the San Anselmo Homes Association have asked the Golden Gate Bridge District board to switch $3 million budgeted for a new southbound roadway to transit projects, and to ask the state to release its claim to $6 million for construction of a second Waldo tunnel and other highway 101 work.

The $6 million also should be transferred to transit projects, the directors said.

In a letter to the bridge district board, the association board said it also has scheduled a general meeting of the association to discuss increased commute tolls on the bridge, at which spokesmen for both sides will speak.

The new roadway and additional highway work would only encourage car traffic instead of supporting greater use of commuter transit facilities, the board's letter said.

HIGHLIGHT A FESTIVE party with spicy crabmeat over corn bread as a different dish for guests. Fisherman's floats, nets and trimmings add to the theme.

Have Shore-Side Party By Serving Spicy Crabmeat Over Corn Bread

"Blow, ye winds in the morning. Blow, ye winds high-o!" Create a festive party mood around this famous quotation. Decorate with fish net, Japanese floats and sea shells and have guests wear last summer's beach clothes. As they share their own tales of the sea you can make final dinner preparations. A seafood entree, Spicy Crab over Corn Bread highlights a party menu and lures family or guests to dinner.

And easy corn bread mix to make the corn bread base lures hostesses, too. A mixture of crab, water chestnuts, tomatoes, green onions and spices accents good corn meal flavor.

Garnish Spicy Crab over Corn Bread with a lemon slice and complete your nautical menu with tossed green salad and a sherbet for dessert.

SPICY CRAB OVER CORN BREAD

Makes 6 servings

Corn Bread:

One 10-oz. pkg. easy corn bread mix
1 egg
½ cup milk

Crab Meat Sauce:

2 garlic cloves, halved
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
One 5-oz. can water chestnuts, thinly sliced
One 1 lb. 12-oz. can whole tomatoes, drained
One 7-oz. can crab meat, drained and flaked
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons dry vermouth

For corn bread, heat oven to hot (425°F.). Put egg and milk into bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air out. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger. With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers. Mix about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended.

Squeeze bag to empty batter into special aluminum foil pan contained in package. (Do not grease pan.) Bake in preheated oven (425°F.) about 20 minutes. Cool. Cut corn bread into six pieces; split each horizontally. Broil until golden brown.

For crab meat sauce, saute garlic cloves in olive oil, remove garlic and discard. Saute onions and water chestnuts in olive oil. Add tomatoes, crab meat, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce; heat thoroughly. Combine cornstarch and vermouth. Add to hot mixture; simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

To serve, spoon crab meat sauce over bottom half of each corn bread square; replace tops. Spoon the remaining crab meat sauce over the tops. Garnish with fresh parsley and lemon wedges.

Coax Children To Dinner With 'Steamboats'

Every mother knows about days with youngsters when they just can't stop playing long enough to eat.

That's the time for a bit of strategy or a magic trick using a favorite food like wieners or hot dogs.

Hot dog Steamboats

8 frankfurters
12 slices bacon, cut in half
¾ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
⅓ cup pickle relish, drained
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon catsup 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
8 frankfurter buns

Roll each half slice of bacon into a curl and secure with a wooden pick. Place bacon curls on a rack in an open pan and bake in a hot oven (400°F.) 12 minutes. Combine cheese, pickle relish, mayonnaise, catsup, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Spread approximately 1½ tablespoons mixture on bottom of each bun. Place frankfurter on cheese mixture and cover with top of bun. Stick 3 partially-cooked bacon curls into top of each sandwich. Place sandwiches on a rack in a shallow pan. Bake in a hot oven (400°F.) 10 minutes. Yield: 8 "Steamboats."

Beef Ribs Are Simple, Good Eating

Here's the satisfying, full-flavored, good eating a man likes to come home to. Beef ribs is also one of the easiest recipes you ever prepared.

Bake meaty shortribs in a hot oven long enough to cook out the excess fat then spoon on canned tomato sauce with onions. This is the new tomato sauce that has lots of chopped onions added to save you fuss and bother. Season the ribs with a bit of paprika and caraway seeds to give them "Old World" flavor.

At serving time arrange ribs over noodles and serve with brussels sprouts, orange, apple and grape salad and rye bread.

Dessert is a delightful concoction called Pumpkin Souffle that you make from vanilla ice cream and canned pumpkin. You can freeze it in a small deep round casserole, a collar fashioned of aluminum foil wrapped around the casserole before the ice cream mixture is spooned in to create the souffle-like height of the dish. You can also freeze the mixture in a square pan if you don't want to the bother of making the foil collar.

BEEF SHORT RIBS

3 to 4 pounds meaty beef short ribs, trimmed
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce with onions
1 cup water
1 teaspoon caraway seeds
2 cups wide noodles, cooked and drained.

Coat meat with mixture of flour, paprika, salt and pepper. In shallow 3-quart baking dish arrange ribs in single layer if possible, keep ribs from touching. Bake at 500° for 25 minutes; pour off fat. Mix 1 can tomato sauce with onions and water; pour over ribs. Sprinkle with caraway seeds. Reduce oven to 325°; bake meat 1 to 1½ hours or until tender. Remove meat to heated serving platter; surround with hot, cooked noodles. Skim any fat from drippings; stir in remaining can tomato sauce with onions and bring to boil. Spoon some of sauce over meat and noodles; pour rest into sauce boat to pass at table. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

PUMPKIN SOUFFLE

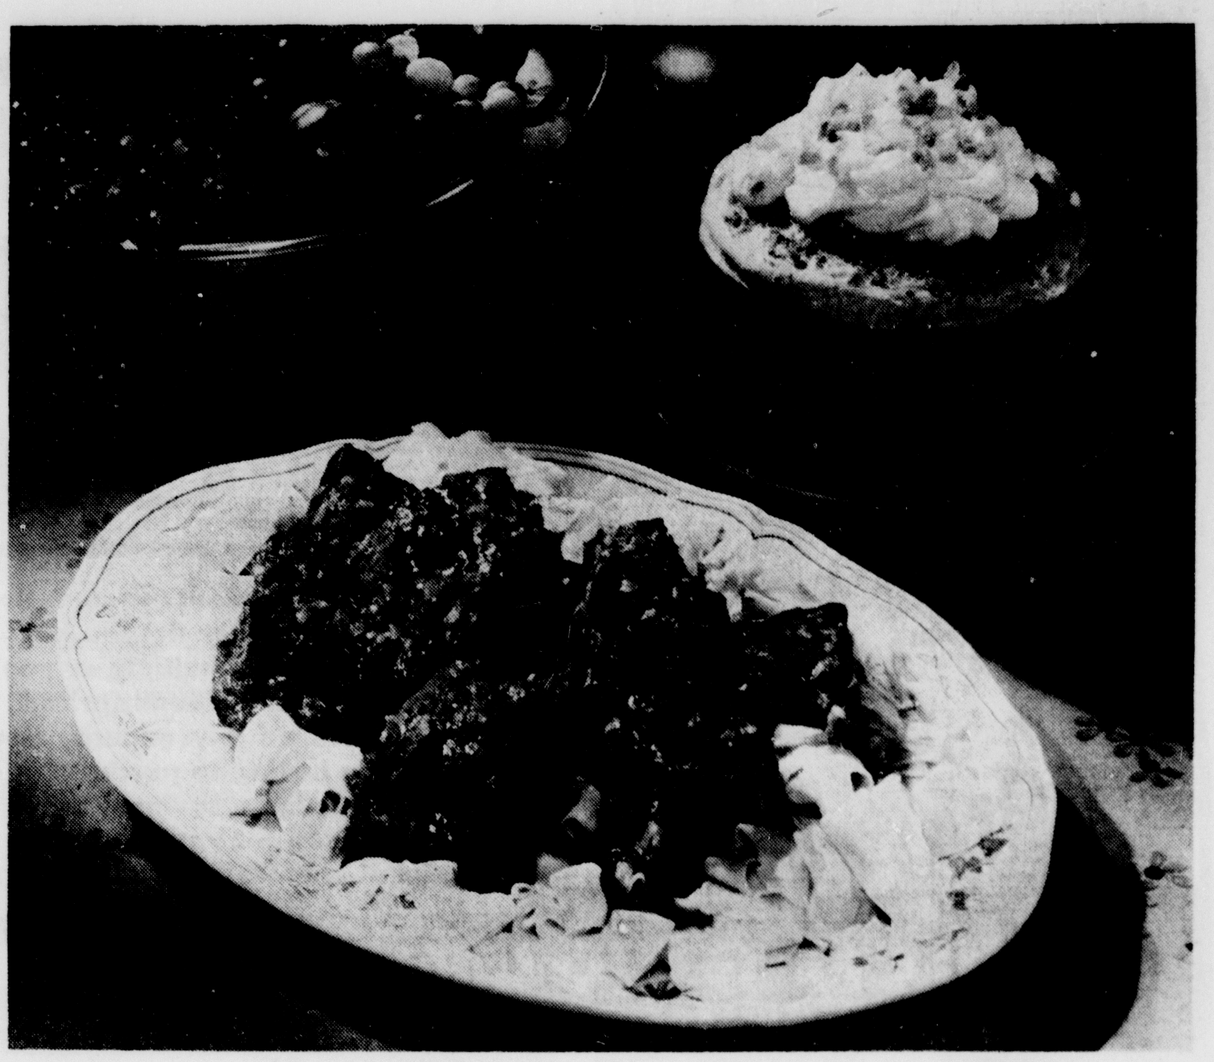
1 quart vanilla ice cream
1-½ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup canned pumpkin
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup heavy cream, whipped, if desired
1 to 2 tablespoons candied ginger, finely chopped, if desire.

Place ice cream in large mixing bowl to soften slightly. In separate bowl mix crubs, granulated sugar and butter. Reserve ½ cup crubs; pat remainder over bottom of 1-quart souffle dish or round casserole. Cut a 24-inch length of aluminum foil; fold lengthwise in half. Wrap tightly around souffle dish making a collar that stands at least 2 inches above top of dsh; tie or tape in place. Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, salt, cinnamon, ground ginger and nutmeg; stir quickly into ice cream. Mix only until well-blended but not melted. Pour into souffle dish; sprinkle with reserved crumbs. Freeze several hours or overnight. To serve, peel off foil; top with whipped cream and chopped candied ginger. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

NOTE: This dessert may also be made in an 8-inch square pan. Prepare crumb mixture as directed, reserving ½ cup; sprinkle over pan. Make pumpkin-ice cream mixture and spoon over crumbs. Top with reserved crumbs and freeze. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Kitchen Storage

Usually, big, heavy articles are stored in the ceiling kitchen cabinet space. That's not good. These items cause strain on the cabinets and the person reaching for the articles.



To Quiz Yourself On Steak Knowledge

Do you know how to buy and broil steaks to perfection? Since there are many kinds of steaks with a wide range of quality, this quiz from the United States Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service will help you bone up on steaks. Check only one answer for each of the questions:

1. USDA Prime T-bone steak compared to USDA Good T-bone steak: (a) is more tender juicy and flavorful (b) has more protein (c) can be broiled whereas USDA Good steak needs moist heat cooking.

2. Round steak is often divided into three parts; the top, bottom and eye-of-round. Which part is less tender? (a) top (b) bottom (c) eye-of-round.

3. USDA's grade mark on meat is: (a) circle (b) shield (c) triangle.

4. Porterhouse T-bone, and Club steaks are: (a) all tender steaks (b) all from the short loin (c) all good for broiling in USDA Prime, Choice and Good grades (d) all of these.

5. Filet mignon, T-bone, rib, chuck and flank steaks are: (a) all tender steaks (b) equally nutritious (c) from the same part of the carcass.

6. The first-cut blade chuck is less tender than other chuck steaks. (a) true (b) false.

7. For best eating, an arm steak should be broiled. ((a) true (b) false.

8. Steaks sold as Western, California, Cheyenne, Petite, Butter, Finger and Breakfast are usually: (a) very tender (b) loin steaks (c) cut from the chuck.

9. Which of the following is the best way to tell when your steak is cooked to the degree of doneness you like? (a) use a timer (b) cut into the steak (c) use a meat thermometer (d) press it with your finger (e) any of these.

10. Steaks with a large amount of specks or fat in the muscles (marbling) are: (a) less tender (b) more tender and flavorful (c) more expensive.

ANSWERS:

1. (a) USDA Prime is the ultimate in tenderness, juiciness and flavor but grade makes little difference in protein or nutritional content. Because a T-bone is a tender cut, it can be broiled in Choice and Good grades as well as Prime.

2. (b) Bottom round is less tender and should be cooked with moist heat, regardless of the grade. Top round can be broiled in USDA Prime or Choice grades. Eye-of-round can be sliced thinly and pan broiled. As a roast, it is tender when cooked to the rare or medium stage.

3. (b) The shield-shaped grade mark containing the letters "USDA" and the grade name — Prime, Choice or Good—can be found on most cuts of graded meat. A round mark is used by USDA to show that the meat has passed inspection for wholesomeness.

4. (d) all of these.

5. (b) The muscle part of the meat has the same nutritional value no matter how tender the meat is or what part of the carcass it came from. The order of tenderness, the most tender being first, is filet mignon, T-bone, rib, chuck and flank. Only the filet mignon and T-bone come from the same section of the carcass.

6. (b) false. The first cut blade steak is the one next to the rib section—and it contains a greater portion of the tender rib-eye muscle than the other blade cuts. This large round muscle adjacent to the rib bone can be cut out and broiled for a delicious "Delmonico" steak.

7. (b) false. The arm chuck steak comes from one of the less tender portions of the beef carcass, so even in the higher grades this cut is more tender when marinated or cooked with moist heat.

8. (c) These are usually names for steaks cut from the chuck which are less tender than those from the short loin or rib section.

9. (e). All of these methods, when properly used, will tell you when your steak is done. Using a meat thermometer is especially good for thick steaks. If you cut into the steak to see the color of the interior cut next to the bone. In touching steaks with your finger, a rare steak will feel soft; medium steaks will spring back when pressed; and well done steaks are firm to the touch. Using a timer successfully depends upon using the same kind and thickness of steak and the same cooking temperature.

10. (b) The amount of marbling is one of the key factors used in determining the meat grade. Generally, young beef with the most marbling grades Prime and is considered the most tender, flavorful and juicy. This beef also commands a high price. However, USDA Choice beef has considerable marbling and is generally priced more favorably while still being tender and juicy. So, when buying your steaks, check the muscle for the amount of marbling as an indication of its tenderness.

Training For Clothing Jobs

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A pilot project in vocational education in the State of California going on at the Tamalpais High School home economics department is the occupational clothing training program under the direction of Mrs. Marcelett C. Henry, head of the department.

Started last September, the program has just completed one semester, and has proved so successful, Mrs. Henry says, that it will continue through the second semester.

"THE PROGRAM represents a family of related occupations in the clothing industry," she says, "and it includes retailing and merchandising as well as the actual production of clothing on industrial-type power sewing machines.

"Some of the girls don't have the temperament for working on the heavy machines because of their speed and power, but there are other things they can prepare for, such as cutters, inspectors, sales work, comparison shoppers, window display personnel and the like."

Although the present class consists of all girls—20 of them—the program is open to boys.

"We feel that if boys are going into retailing and sales aspects of the clothing industry," Mrs. Henry pointed out, "the program offers them a golden opportunity to learn about textiles, color, design and window display."

THE MAIN qualifications for acceptance in the program are aptitude and willingness to learn.

"Training is designed to meet local employment needs and to enable students to get entry-level jobs in the various clothing-related fields," she explains.

"In developing the program we called on people in industry and business to aid in suggesting the kinds of activities that would be of benefit to them in hiring high school students. Most of the businesses contacted which serve on the advisory committee composed of representatives from education, management and labor, agreed to hire students trained in the program.

"After all, they are currently hiring students without any formal training. Most of the hiring will be in the Bay Area because most of the factories are in San Francisco, though there is one in Napa. Then, of course, there are many small, independent businesses like cleaners, small dress shops and alterations and repair establishments.

"SOME OF THE other objectives of the program," Mrs. Henry continued, "are to help the student to become creative, to work with others under pressure, to become aware of and understand management and its objectives and, in general, to encourage the kind of characteristics that insure success on the job and in everyday living.

"We also try to give students information about employment opportunities and how to go about getting a job. Of great value in helping them to find jobs is having each girl prepare a brochure about herself giving her general qualifications and showing pictures of her, in color, if possible, wearing clothes she has made."

A visit to the class held daily from 10:40 a.m. to 11:40 a.m. confirmed the practicality and high level of accomplishment of the program. The girls were completing their last assignment of making skirts and slacks.

Observing was a student teacher, Marlene Levitt from San Francisco State College, who was very enthusiastic about the program.

"I THINK IT'S fantastic," she observed. "It's the only one being done in any of the high schools I have visited. There's one being planned in San Diego, but it will probably be another year before it gets started.

"I have a B. A. with major in art and minor in home economics, and I'm preparing to be a teacher of art and home economics. I've just been observing this semester, but I'll be teaching this next semester under the direction of Mrs. Henry."

Miss Righetti Is A Bride

Kathleen Righetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Righetti of Greenbrae, became the bride of Harold Patrick Bryant of San Rafael Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael.

Her sister, Barbara Righetti, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were the bridegroom's sister Lorelei Bryant of Los Banos, Mary O'Key of San Rafael and Janet Villivacencio of San Francisco.

Best man was Richard Creswell of Salinas, the bridegroom's brother, and ushers were Patrick Sullivan of San Rafael, Steve Righetti of Greenbrae, the bride's brother, and Jerry Bryant of Los Banos.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the Marin Country Club. The couple are on a wedding trip to Palm Springs and will return to live in San Rafael.

A graduate of Redwood High School and the College of Marin, Kathleen is employed by Dr. Robert Gobar in Daly City.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold V. Bryant of Los Banos, was graduated from Los Banos Union High School and San Francisco College of Mortuary Science. He is employed by Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. He is also the brother of Lorelei and Jerry Bryant of Los Banos.

Library In Memory Of The Late Lori Meislin

Plans to send seven-year-old Lori Meislin to dancing school were thwarted when a respiratory illness, hemophilsus influenza, suddenly took her life in 1967. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Meislin of Tiburon, have now established a Memorial Dance Library at the Leona Norman School of Ballet in San Rafael.

Barbara Meislin speaks of her own love for dancing as an area "where I can express my feelings about my little girl. I can imagine how she would have enjoyed these books on dance, music and theater while relaxing in a pretty study during rehearsal time."

Offers of help have already come to the Meislins. They plan to make a contribution to the library each year, and it will be matched by the Marin Civic Ballet Association. Leona Norman and Mrs. William Stewart of San Rafael have contributed their books. Mrs. Max Thelen of San Rafael has donated book-cases. Ruth Syndon of Mill Valley and Mrs. Philard McAtee of Novato will work with some of the ballet students to convert the front room of the Norman home to a study hall bright with flowered wallpaper and plants. The ladies will sew drapery, putty windows, paint and paper. They will welcome contributions of furniture, books, records and record player. A June dedication is planned.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Supervisors Who Demand Payola Should Be Reported To The Boss

DEAR HELEN:

Where I work, if you don't bring gifts for the floor lady you get all the dirty jobs.

One woman buys coffee for the three supervisors every day. Another brings them cookies and cakes, and you can be sure the bosses make a point to thank them in front of all us others so we'll catch on. But this is expensive, and we don't think we should have to pay off to get good treatment.

Another woman does all the shopping for her f l o o r l a d y, spending her whole noon hour tramping the stores. She too has the run of the plant.

We who won't conform are treated like scum, bawled out, walked over. If we report this to the big boss, we'll only get it worse and, besides, who'd believe us?

Should we bride or blab?

—THE NON-APPLE POLISHERS ON FLOOR TWO

DEAR NAP:

If all of you non-polishers feel the same, why not appoint a delegation to discuss this favoritism with the boss? Or write him a letter asking that he keep a closer watch on floor two Supervisors who demand payola should be replaced. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Mafia families plan organized crime, But our five-year-old thrives on disorganized grime.—

ALWAYS SCRUBBING

DEAR A.S.:

Take heart: When he reaches age 16, a girl friend may change him to Mr. Clean.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

In the Congressional investigation on the safeness of the Pill, I understand not one woman was asked to participate on the committee. It's the same when big business puts its pointy heads together on new time- and work-saving household devices.

So the men hem and haw and argue over problems that are basically women's. No wonder, then that we gals are forced to take all the risks (in birth control) while males get most of the pleasure; and our kitchen and washroom inventions are often so poorly planned that they're more work than time-savers.

How come the ladies don't get into the act more often? Isn't it time women rebelled at being second class c i t i z e n s? —

DISCRIMINATED AGAINST

DEAR D.A.:

Certainly is. But women are their own worst enemies when it comes to fighting for equal rights. I don't know whether this is a learned response or born into females, but most settle for crumbs (in what they still consider a man's world) when, with a little more effort, their brains and ability could bring them a fair share of the cake. Too often they feel that speaking out for their cause is unfeminine, and career gals pay a high price for success: i.e., they lose their mates.

Until the ladies realize their potential—and stop condemning the few who do—they'll continue s e t t l i g for all-male Senate committees, man-made household appliances, and s e c o n d class citizenship.

Really, it's not all bad: We've come pretty far via the submit and conquer route, right? Most of us don't resent this happy life where we let men take the reins while we sit in the cheering section—pulling strings. —H.

Range Of Color

A wide, ever-changing palette of colors is available for home decorating. The selections made should revolve around colors that suit the family's living and the furnishings already in the home. For example, bold, clear colors may make things look dingy, or they may add just the right touch. No color by itself is good or bad, pretty or ugly. Its' the way the colors are combined that gives them value.

Sausalito Councilmen Want Pay; Move Hit

Sausalito City Councilmen last night decided to vote themselves salaries of $150 a month and introduced an ordinance to that effect.

Carl W. Spring, representing the Sausalito Citizens Council, objected heatedly to the move, saying salaries for the council would result in a 3-cent increase in the city's tax rate.

"I think Sausalito has more important things to do with its money," Spring said.

Mayor Earl F. Dunphy replied that in the last four days he had devoted 14 hours to city business. "The council works hard," he added.

Although state law allows city councilmen to establish salaries of $150 for themselves without calling for a city election, Spring urged the council to "give the people of Sausalito a chance to decide whether you should be paid."

The council will vote on the ordinance at its Feb. 17 meeting, but, even if it is passed, will receive no pay until after the April 14 municipal election.

The Sausalito City Council Also:

APARTMENT DEVELOPMENT — Set Feb. 10 as the date for a special meeting for study of a proposed 431-unit apartment on 14 acres of the former American Distillery Co. property in northern Sausalito. Councilman Wyman Hicks said he would like to see the developer present "a positive plan" for insuring the project will be racially integrated.

TREE REMOVAL — Agreed to remove a dying pine tree at 32 Currey Avenue.

TAXI RATES — Approved a request from the Sausalito Taxi Service and the Sausalito Yellow Taxi Co. to raise rates for the first three-fifths of a mile from 60 to 70 cents. The council also approved the companies' request to charge 10 cents a minute when the taxi is traveling less than 10 miles an hour.

VARIANCE — Granted a variance to Warren Glass to add to his residence on Wolfback Ridge Road, even though the structure is within eight feet of the rear property line.

CLOSED SESSION — Held a closed session to discuss litigation against the city with City Atty. Leland H. Jordan.

ORDINANCE — Amended the city's zoning ordinance to allow persons in single-family or duplex dwellings which may be nonconforming in regard to size or open space requirements to expand or build in a way that conforms to the zone requirements without seeking a variance.

Enrollment At Junior College Shifts

Total enrollment at College of Marin dropped nearly a thousand this semester compared to a year ago, but student attendance is up because more students are attending full time, the college has announced.

Total enrollment is 5,196, compared to 6,105 last spring, but full-time enrollment rose from 2,521 to 3,201. Average daily attendance rose from 3,714 to 3,869.

When the semester started yesterday, 388 classes had room for more students, and 300 students had been allowed to register late if they can find classes they want with room for them.

The College has 460 part-time students, taking nine to 12 units, compared to 807 last spring. There are 1,535 special students, taking fewer than nine units, compared to 2,777 last spring.

The College denied admission to 124 applicants whose legal residence is out of the district or outside California.

Transit Funds Face Tough Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a relatively smooth ride through the Senate, a $3.1 billion mass transit subsidy bill may face rougher going in the House as supporters begin the push for final action this session.

The Senate gave the measure overwhelming 83-4 passage Tuesday, bolstering the hopes of sponsors that the House's traditionally less-friendly attitude to such legislation can be overcome.

The House Banking Committee announced the start of public hearing March 2 on the bill. But the real trouble could come in the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

Sweeping Draft Changes Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee has called for sweeping executive and legislative changes in the Selective Service system to make the draft fairer and more uniform.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called on the Nixon administration Tuesday to end occupational deferments immediately, student deferments in time of conflict, abolish state and local quotas, establish a uniform national policy and kick the military out of the Selective Service system.

The report suggested Congress consider the need for a selective conscientious objector status.

POT TRIAL—Former Kingston Trio singer Nick Reynolds (left) who testified yesterday that his longtime manager Frank N. Werber (right) has improved since he began using marijuana chats with Werber outside a Marin Superior Court room. Rabbi, Ex-Kingston Trio Member Testify For Werber

By MARY LEYDECKER

A Marin rabbi and an Oregon rancher who used to be a Kingston Trio member came to the trial of entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber yesterday to lend credence to Werber's claim that he needs marijuana for his religion.

"It's possible. Yes, it's possible" said Rabbi Morton Hoffman of Congregation Rodef Sholom, when asked if he thought Werber had had mystical experiences from pot.

Nick Reynolds, who sang with the trio during its rise to fame, said that Werber has changed from a man "on an ego trip" to being a spiritual humanist since he began using pot in 1965.

Werber, who was arrested on Oct. 14, 1968, at his DeSilva Island home on Richardson Bay in a raid by narcotics agents, is charged in Marin Superior Court with possessing and cultivating marijuana. He has already been acquitted in federal court of conspiring to smuggle six seabags containing 258 pounds of pot into the country.

The former Kingston Trio manager contends that he is entitled to smoke marijuana for religious purposes under the constitutional guarantee to religious freedom. His attorney, Terrence Hallinan has likened this exemption to the use of wine during Prohibition in Roman Catholic services.

Rabbi Hoffman began his testimony yesterday by emphasizing that he deplores the use of pot. "I don't hold with it all," he said.

However the rabbi said he concluded after a three-hour interview with Werber before the trial that Werber's childhood experiences as a German Jew plus his seeking for material success could have led him to seek mystical experience.

During this interview Werber broke down and sobbed uncontrollably, Hoffman said, who added that "I don't think it was an act."

Although the rabbi said there is no record in Jewish history of drugs ever having been used by mystics, Hoffman said that with Werber's lack of the usual tools of study and religious education, marijuana could have led him to a religious experience.

He explained that there has been a "flowering of mysticism" among Jews after every difficult period in their history, and that although mystics have been considered heretics, scholars now feel they were sincere.

He added that Werber would be considered heretical by Jews.

The rabbi chided Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales for "making light" of Werber's childhood experiences.

"You have touched a raw nerve," Hoffman said, when Bales attempted to show that Werber did not suffer as much under the Nazis as many Jews.

Asked by Bales if Werber follows Jewish religious practices, Hoffman said "no" but "no matter how far a Jew has wandered from tradition, we still feel he is not lost."

Earlier, Reynolds said that Werber was "like a man possessed with gaining success and maintaining an image" in the early 1960's.

"Serene," "spiritual" and "kind" were the adjectives Reynolds chose to describe the Werber of today.

Reynolds said that Werber told him in 1966 of having a religious experience with marijuana but said that he didn't really believe him at the time.

Reynolds admitted that he has used marijuana several times but has never had spiritual experiences from it.

Werber's "whole life style" has changed since he began using pot, however, Reynolds said.

Under cross-examination by Bales, Reynolds said that his own life-style has also changed since he was a singer and guitarist with the trio and that he has found "fulfillment" as a farmer in Oregon.

"No," he answered when asked by Bales if he had used drugs to find contentment.

The trial was to continue before Judge E. Warren McGuire today.

Sonoma Hears Commute Hike Is Justified

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A public transportation system that may reduce commuter traffic congestion justifies the recent increase in the price of commute books, Golden Gate Bridge District directors told the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday.

Supervisor George T. DeLong of Petaluma had called the Sonoma representatives to report on what Southern Sonoma commuters will get as a result of the commute book increase from $6.50 to $10.

Dale W. Leuhring, bridge district general manager, said the extra revenue will be used to finance the development of a long range rapid transit system, and on a short range basis will offer public bus and ferry service to San Francisco as an alternative to driving the family car.

NECESSARY NOW

Leuhring said it was absolutely necessary unless Marin and Sonoma counties were prepared to see Highway 101 widened to 16 lanes and a new 10-lane bridge constructed.

He said that while six out of seven commuters now use private transportation, that trend could be reversed if good service at reasonable rates is provided by public transportation.

Leuhring said the district will be in the bus business by fall and will probably provide 20 buses to serve Petaluma, Rohnert Park, Cotati and Santa Rosa.

DeLong asked how local representatives voted on the rate increase and found that E. J. Guidotti and L. W. Kastner had opposed it while William R. Lucius voted in favor in the 10 to 6 vote.

The three directors said they envision no more increases in the next two years.

NEARLY COMPLETED

Leuhring said a study on ferry service should be completed in three months, and while it may not provide immediate service to Southern Sonoma, it may in the future serve Petaluma via the Petaluma River if the correct type of ferry is reasonably priced.

The manager said the increased revenues will finance stopgap measures until a rapid transit plan is in full swing in 1980. Luehring said the federal government will give California $375 million in the next five years for transportation planning, and said he was hopeful the bridge district would receive a share.

The supervisors made no objection to the rate increase, but said it would have been better had an alternate choice of public transportation already been available.

Myers Is 'Tired Of Being Used'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bishop C. Kilmer Myers, the Episcopal bishop of California, said Tuesday he is "tired of being used by both the right and left" and publicly disowned an announcement he would participate in the coming convention of the Episcopal Peace Fellowship.

The Bishop's blunt letter to all clergy in his diocese was touched off by a program for the convention published in "The Bridge," a bi-monthly newsletter jointly sponsored by Episcopal and Roman Catholic groups participating in the convention next week.

The bishop, who has been absent from his office for more than a month with pneumonia, said illness would prevent him from participating in the convention. However, he said he would allow it to use Grace Cathedral on Nob Hill for its final session Feb. 14.

Larkspur Fire Will Be Probed

Larkspur Fire Chief William C. Shurtz today called in special fire investigator from the American Insurance Association to find the cause of Monday night's $55,000 fire at 557 Magnolia Avenue.

Calling in Earl E. Guisness, who has taught arson investigation at the College of Marin, Shurtz said he was suspicious of two fires at the same address.

"The first fire at 2:49 p.m. I'm sure was an accident," he said, "but the police had checked the house at 11:45 and observed nothing unusual. Ten minutes later the house was totally involved in flames."

Adding that the contents had been removed from the building following the first fire, Shurtz said, "Fires don't start that fast."

No Student Hikes Seen In Fairfax

The Fairfax School District board was told last night to expect no increase in enrollment during the next five years, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

A slight increase in seventh and eighth grade classes could be expected, he said, but this would be offset by smaller enrollments in the lower grades.

The Fairfax School District board also:

Theft Of Money

Dr. Raymond Nizibian reported to police yesterday that $85 in cash had been taken from his office at 1122 B Street, Petaluma, sometime between Jan. 28 and Jan. 30. He said the money was missing from the receptionist's desk.

Marin's Schools Face Funds Loss

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Ten of Marin County's school districts stand to lose money under Gov. Ronald Reagan's "equal educational opportunity" plan for redistributing part of school district taxes statewide, according to a preliminary tabulation.

The governor's plan, included in his budget proposal, calls for statewide redistribution of up to $2.05 of the tax rate of school districts. The $2.05 would apply, however, only to the handful of unified districts which include elementary, high school and junior colleges within one district.

The first $1 of the tax rate of elementary school districts would be redistributed, the first 80 cents of the rate of high school districts, and the first 25 cents of the rate of junior college districts, explained Edwin H. Harper of the California Department of Education. (These amounts are the old statutory tax rate limits for such districts.)

The effect would be that some of the money from richer districts, which have high expenditure per pupil, would go to poorer districts, which are unable to spend so much per pupil despite having equal or higher tax rates.

Since most of Marin's districts spend more than the state average per pupil, most of them would lose money by the redistribution.

Also, as Harper explained the program, the few rural elementary districts that levy less than the old statutory limits would have to increase their rate to the 80 cents.

In unified school districts which do not include junior colleges, such as Novato and Shoreline in Marin, the first $1.80 of the tax rate would go to the state for redistribution.

The 10 districts in Marin County that would stand to lose, according to figures based on 1968-69 tax rates, are:

Bolinas-Stinson, Fairfax, Kentfield, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Nicasio, Reed, Ross, San Anselmo, and Sausalito.

Amounts that each district would gain or lose, based on the current tax rates, had not yet been worked out today, according to Richard Lazansky, analyst with the state Department of Finance.

Using last year's figures, Doug Willis, Associated Press writer, reported San Francisco schools would be the heavyest losers, dropping $9.5 million, and Los Angeles Unified School District would be the biggest gainer, $7 million. In both these districts, however, considerable saving in welfare and Medi-Cal taxes under another part of the governor's program would almost balance out the loss of school moneys.

Districts which stand to lose would have to raise tax rates if they wished to provide the same amount of money per pupil.

Owner Frightens Intruder Away

Chief William S. Woodington said Mrs. James Meyer of 310 Beach Road heard a noise in the home about 3:45 a.m. Upon calling police, Woodington said, Mrs. Meyer heard the intruder run down a flight of steps and out of the house.

A search of the area failed to locate the burglar. The intruder entered the home through an unlocked kitchen door, Woodington said. Nothing was missing.

Voters Will Decide Public Housing Idea

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors said yesterday that the need for a housing authority should be determined by all county voters and called for a vote on June 2.

In a public hearing, the board heard numerous county groups ask for the immediate establishment of a public housing authority to provide needed low cost housing.

Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella of Sonoma said he felt that if county residents were asked to vote on the issue, there would be more general commitment to the concept. He pledged to work for passage of the ballot resolution.

In calling for the election, the board voted three to one. Supervisor Robert Thieller of Sebastopol objected, saying the need for a housing authority was obvious and that it should be instituted immediately by board resolution.

Supervisors George T. DeLong of Petaluma and Arthur R. Ruonavaara of Healdsburg agreed with Vella on putting it to the people. Supervisor Meade Nordyke of Santa Rosa was absent.

DeLong said he saw a great need for more low cost housing in many parts of the county, said he thought the southern section did not. He said appeals made by the groups were done on an emotional basis and that more statistics must be presented before he is convinced.

Auto Is Stolen

A green 1958 Volkswagen, license CUM 492, owned by Bonita Sanborn of Boardwalk 1, Larkspur, was stolen between 7 and 11:15 p.m. yesterday while parked at 117 Locust Avenue, Larkspur police reported today.

Perry Will Seek Hub Council Job

Warren R. Perry San Anselmo planning commissioner, has announced he will seek a San Anselmo City Council seat in the April 14 election.

Perry, a San Rafael attorney, said the city has lacked direction and consistency in growth and in government administration.

The three main issues in San Anselmo, he said, are flood control and saving Corte Madera Creek, traffic and transportation, and direction and organization of city government.

"As a creekbank dweller whose basement was flooded this year, I appreciate at first hand the need for flood control," Perry said. "At the same time, I feel that the creek cannot be sacrificed in the name of efficient flood control. The creek in a natural state is too important to San Anselmo."

Perry said he was "absolutely opposed" to Highway 17 or any state highway passing through the city, and said alternatives to the automobile must be found.

The city council, he said, must mind the city's internal affairs, but also must participate in events outside the city, or "solutions to our problems may be dictated to us."

Perry,39, was born in San Anselmo a third-generation resident of Ross Valley. He and his wife, Jane, have three sons, Tom, 16; Ross, 13; and Jim, 11.

He has served on the planning commission since 1963 and was chairman in 1966 and 1967. He has also served on the design review board since 1969. He has worked on fund-raising drives for the United Crusade, the Heart Fund and Boy Scouts.

He is a partner in the firm of Pendergrass and Perry, a director of the Marin County Bar Association, and a member of the American and California bar associations and the Elks Club. He served as a Marine lieutenant from 1953 to 1955.

Western Singer Ready For Action

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Marty Robbins, 44-year-old country and Western singer who had a major heart operation last week, says he thinks he can get back into action by mid-April.

Among the better-known Robbins songs are "El Paso," "Devil Woman" and "Running Gun."

"I have a booking to perform for a month at the Fremont Hotel in Las Vegas starting April 16," he said Tuesday, "and I plan to be there."

Family Wanting Benito's Medals

A suit filed on behalf of the heirs Tuesday by Mussolini's son Romano, a jazz pianist, cited "a normal right of heredity" and "the moral interest that can be connected to such objects."

Mussolini's widow, Rachele, was granted a state pension of $230 a month last May after years of litigation.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Some Players Just Afraid To Take Bidding To Slam

Not everybody would bid a grand slam with today's South hand. Some people like to arrive at a railroad station three hours before their train leaves; others prefer to catch a train on the run. If you're a cautious type, imagine that one of your optimistic friends has bid the hand and then has gone off to catch a train, leaving you to play the hand for him.

SPADE OPENER

West opens the eight of spades, and you put up dummy's jack. East covers with the queen, and you win with the king. This doesn't seem to be the right time to refuse the first trick.

You lead the ace of diamonds, and West drops a small heart (probably hoping that you'll mistake it for a diamond). But you have your wits about you, and you proceed to make your plan for the grand slam.

It isn't very difficult, but it does take some thought. Make your plan before you read on.

EXTRA ENTRY

You must reach dummy twice to make the slam. Both entries may be found in clubs if you play the suit carefully.

Cash the king and queen of clubs first, discovering that the suit breaks normally. Then lead the jack of clubs to dummy's ace. This puts you in the dummy the first time to lead the jack of diamonds.

East plays low, and you let dummy's jack win the trick. You continue with a low diamond, winning a finesse with the ten. Then you clear the king of diamonds out of the way.

LEAD LOW CLUB

Now you lead the four of clubs and win the trick with dummy's five. After the high cards of a suit have been played, the lower cards have their rank.

You are in dummy, so you can cash the last diamond, discarding the deuce of spades from your hand. Now, when your optimistic friend comes back from missing his train, you can tell him that you made his grand slam for him.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1 no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
S- J 3
H- Q J
D- J 6 5 3 2
C- A 5 3 2
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid 2-no-trump.

This promises eight points or a poorish nine points, and invites partner to go on to game unless he has an unpromising 16 points. You don't enjoy raising no-trump with two doubletons, but you cannot encourage game in a minor suit with so poor a hand, and it would be cowardly to pass.

Annual Dinner

San Francisco newspaperman Paul Speegle will be master of ceremonies of the Marin County branch of the American Cancer Society's annual dinner, "Decade Debut" Feb. 16 at the San Rafael Holiday Inn.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, Feb. 4, the 35th day of 1970 with 330 to follow.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1938 Adolf Hitler seized control of the German army and put Nazi officers in key posts.

In 1966 President Johnson flew to Hawaii for a conference on the Vietnam War.

A thought for the day: William Penn said, "Passion is a sort of fever in the mind which never leaves us weaker than it found us."

Probation, Fine In Hub Burglary

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court has placed Jeremiah J. St. Martin, 23, of San Rafael on two years probation and fined him $250 for his part in the burglary of a San Anselmo antique shop July 21.

The judge on Monday also ordered St. Martin to submit to periodic testing to determine if he is using narcotics.

Two other defendants in the case, including St. Martin's younger brother, were sentenced earlier.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

State Flood Damage $23 Million, Rising

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State disaster officials have received reports of $23 million damage to property in 15 Northern California counties from floods since Dec. 17.

They advised Gov. Reagan Tuesday to add Yuba and Sutter counties to the list of his declared disaster areas.

Twelve of the 15 are on Reagan's list and therefore subject to state aid.

Gordon Larkin, of the state disaster office, said federal, state and local engineers are probing in the damaged counties and so far report $17 million damage to public property and $6.88 million to private property.

Shasta County's damage is esmated at 6.075 million, largest of any of the counties.

Larking said the damage estimates "undoubtedly will go up."

Latest reports from the disaster office show these damage estimates:

Modoc, $1.53 million; Plumas, $550,000; Lassen, $713,000; Tehama, $1.45 million; Butte, $1.76 million; Siskiyou, $1.14 million; Trinity, $690,000; Glenn, $1.99 million; Shasta, $6.075 million; Lake, $1.17 million; Marin, $1.39 million; Colusa, $1.9 million; Yuba, $1.65 million; Sutter, $1 million, and Del Norte, $1 million.

MAY MISS BALLOT

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A tax reform initiative to shift more welfare and school costs to the state will not be on the June 2 primary election ballot, Asistant Secretary of State H. P. "Pat" Sullivan predicted on Tuesday.

Sullivan based the forecast on the announced timetable set by the initiative proponents, the county supervisors of California and the California Teachers Association.

The CTA has picked a Feb. 15 deadline for its workers to bring in a total of 69,339 signatures, the number needed to qualify for the ballot the tax reform proposal. The measure would have the state pay 90 per cent of all welfare costs and half of all school costs.

This deadline means the signatures would be turned in to county clerks about Feb. 17. County clerks then have 10 days to authenticate signatures and notify the secretary of state.

Sullivan questions whether the petitions will be qualified in time to reach the State Printing Plant by Feb. 25.

"I doubt if it's possible to get the initiative on the ballot with that time schedule," said Sullivan.

"It's a very serious logistics problem.'

The initiative had 450,937 of the required 520,276 signatures as of Jan. 22, the normal deadline for initiative measures.

If the initiative qualifies too late for the spring election, Sullivan said, it would go on the Nov. 3 general election ballot.

MANSION URGED

SACRAMENTO (AP)— Three Democratic assemblywomen have moved to provide a new official governor's mansion.

Gov. Reagan's decision in 1967 to live somewhere other than in the present 92-year-old mansion has drawn criticism from Democrats who say his present lease arrangements obligate him to the group of millionaire business men from whom he rents the home.

Assemblywomen Yvonne Brathwaite of Los Angeles, Pauline Davis of Portola, and March Fong of Oakland, announced Tuesday their plan to sponsor legislation appropriating $750,000 for a new mansion.

In their announcement, the assemblywomen said: "We do not necessarily question the present integrity of our governor. But no governor should put himself in the position where he might be indebted for favors received from certain millionaires."

The women — the only three women members of the legislature — said their proposal would not take a stand in the controversy over whether the mansion should be built on state-owned property or on land donated by a group of private citizens.

Such a plot was donated to the state last year. It is in the Sacramento suburb of Carmichael, overlooking he American River.

The present official mansion, now used as a tourist attraction, is on a noisy, unattractive intersection in downtown Sacramento. Fire officials have described it as "a firetrap."

Bladder Infections Caused By Invasion By Neighbor Microbes

HOW TO KEEP WELL VAN DELLEN Feb 4, wed K218-2 Bladder Infections sharon opr 33

Inflammation of the urinary bladder (cystitis) stems from invasion of the organ by microorganisms. The majority of these agents come from adjacent and connecting areas.

VAN DELLEN

Cystitis is common in girls and women. It generally travels from the pelvic organs, including the rectum, and enters the bladder via a short tube that leads from the organ to the outside (urethra).

FREQUENCY AND BURNING of urination are present; the urine may be cloudy. When urgency coexists, the bladder needs frequent emptying. The sufferer is unable to travel by auto for more than a few miles without stopping at the nearest gas station.

A sulfonamide or an antibiotic controls symptoms and is capable of killing most germs. Several new products are highly effective in this respect.

If an all-purpose urinary antiseptic fails to bring relief, tests must be run to determine the causative organism and the drug that will be successful. It may be necessary to dilate the urethra, apply an antiseptic, or cauterize the infected areas.

IN MEN, CYSTITIS can be traced to a prostate infection or to an obstruction of the bladder due to stricture. The disease is easily controlled with the wonder drugs, but for lasting results the cause must be eradicated.

Ordinary acute inflammation of the bladder usually responds to the sulfonamides, antibiotics, or Neg Gram. If the condition recurs, there is a good possibility that a rare or a resistant microorganism is responsible.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.

AFTERNOON FATIGUE

Mrs. W. M. writes: Every afternoon I feel so tired I have to lie down. On washday, I have to rest two or three times. What is wrong with me? I am only 29 and of normal weight.

REPLY

You are too young to be so tired. May I suggest a thorough examination to determine whether your fatigue is caused by organic disease or an emotional disorder? The check-up should include laboratory tests for anemia and thyroid deficiency.

UNWIND BEFORE BED

E. D. writes: I don't eat before going to bed but have terrifying dreams. What could cause these nightmares?

REPLY

Your mind continues to be active and you re-live the day experiences of your own and of some one else. Many persons unwind at the end of the day by watching TV, listening to the radio, or reading.

BABIES AND PICKLES

Mrs. P. B. writes: My 20-month-old baby likes pickles. Is it safe to let him have them?

REPLY

I doubt if an occasional pickle will cause any trouble. As a general rule, relishes such as olives, pickles, and radishes are not harmful so long as they are not replacing basic foods.

ABDOMINAL TB

T. P. write: What is tuberculous peritonitis?

REPLY

BARBITURATE

REPLY

College Trustees Due Library Plan

The Marin Junior College District board will consider preliminary plans for the new campus library when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Room 96 of Olney Hall on the Kentfield campus.

If the plans are approved, the architect can proceed with working drawings. Construction is to start on the old science center site in spring of 1971, and completion is scheduled for fall of 1972.

The board also will take up two related items in the policies and procedures handbook, a proposed revision of the due process procedure for hearing student appeals and a section on the district responsibility for financial aid to students.

Five students were disciplined last semester for disrupting a board meeting when demanding more student aid. They then challenged appeal procedures as not providing due legal process.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Al Capp Will Be Subject Of Special

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Al Capp, who is famous nowadays not only as the creator of "Li'l Abner"—but also as a blunt talker about young people's actions—will be the subject of an hour NBC-TV special March 1.

The droll, outrageously funny cartoonist, who makes a very lively video guest, is currently a hot item on the college lecture circuit because of his deadly barbs puncturing the myth of youth's infallibility.

And so the "NBC Experiment in Television" series decided he would be worth looking into. He certainly is. He has more horse sense than 3,000 sociology professors. The show about him will be called "This is Al Capp," and will be produced and directed by Guy Fraumeni and Ernest Pintoff, who did a splendid hour on Marshall McLuhan for the same series in 1967.

Among the quotes by Capp that NBC-TV has included in its announcement of the program is this one: "A Harvard student who beats up the dean is just as bad as a mugger. In a poor neighborhood he is sent to jail. At Harvard he is sent to graduate school." It's a very representative quote. As is this: "When you go to a department store you don't beat up the clerk if you don't like the merchandise. You go to another store."

And this: "When you encourage mobs, the mobs destroy. There is no such thing as a controlled mob."

NBC-TV notes that Capp's remarks have angered liberals and delighted conservatives. I think that's a rather limited and dated way of looking at things. Certain things touch a chord very different from politics. Common sense is common sense, whether one is a liberal or conservative.

And nonsense is nonsense—whether it is absurdly buying the whole youth movement, or just as absurdly banning celebrities from speaking up for the peace movement, or any movement (including pro-war), on network television talk programs. The common enemy is nonsense, no matter where from, or with what intention.

On April 25, by the way, NBC-TV will have another unique special —a 90-minute documentary dealing with mental illness among adolescents, produced by Lucy Jarvis and directed by Tom Priestley, both notable talents. Title: "Cry Help! And NBC White Paper on Mentally Disturbed Youth."

Most of the broadcast will take place in California's Napa Valley, where a state mental hospital has a special treatment program. About 25 teen-agers are getting treatment there. Says Mrs. Jarvis: "There are six million cases (of mental illness) between the ages of 16 and 24 in the U.S., and less than 10 per cent of them receive adequate care, if at all."

Marin Foursome Honored By Hot Stove Boys

BY GARY TISCHLER

I'm not even sure there's any of those old, coffee-streaked, black stoves around, outside of museums and antique shops.

The kind of men, however, for whom the idea of that kind of stove was like some kind of magnetized storehouse of athletic memories, still are.

That'a pretty much the point and reason for the Hot Stove League of Marin County—to perpetuate the idea of the hot stove, the old magnet around which men a little older, ex-athletes, ex-and-still fans gathered to recall past highlights and glories, real or imagined.

"It's sort of a way for old-time athletes to get together, talk, have a good time, and see each other," Paul Byrne, of Mill Valley, who is the coordinator and organizer of the Marin County Hot Stove League, said.

This Friday, for the second year in a row, the Marin County Hot Stove League, will honor a quartet of former athletes who brought a measure of fame and pride to Marin County through their accomplishments by inducting baseballers Joe DeMaestrie and Artie Schallock, golfer Mat Palacio Jr., and boxer Claude "Kid" Capley into the Marin County Athletic Hall of Fame.

It will all take place at a stag get-together at Mt. Carmel Auditorium, Buena Vista and West Blithedale Ave., in Mill Valley at 8 p.m. Friday. Admission is $3.

Food, and more than likely beer, will be served. Also, a film of last year's unbelievable World Series will be shown and some surprise guests are expected.

JOE DE MAESTRI

CLAUDE 'KID' CAPLEY

MAT PALACIO JR.

ART SCHALLOCK

Time has a way of changing things so that DeMaestri, Palacio, Schallock and Capley are not quite the same as when they had names that turn into the kind that you remember.

(Maybe there never really was a stove like that, with a long, bent and crooked pipe, grates and pieces of thick wood and coal. But the kind of talk that might have filtered and circled around it, the vocal total recall that might have hovered over it, that you have to believe is real. Because it's a funny thing, but besides maybe white weddings and gray funerals, athletic memories, if you have any at all, seem to stick most securely, like comfortable glue. So picture, if you like, some barely-past-their prime faces, their voices good-natured, the talk precise, a little gruff, maybe, talking about when. .)

But back in the early 1930's, Capley, now living in Sausalito, was one of the better welterweights around, and he fought some of the top welter names, including French champ Gaston Ricardi, and people like "Battling" Dozier.

"I think this thing is fine, it's all right," Capley said of the Hall of Fame. "No, I don't see too many fights. I used to, but not too much any more."

(". . .hey Ed, I remember when I used to have to hit against you. In high school for chrissakes, and you had a pretty good curve even then. You hung it pretty good, enough to make you want to fall over, waitin' for it to get to the plate." "But do you remember that Walton kid, he wound up in Oregon someplace, or Portland, I don't know, someplace up North, but boy, the son of a gun could run, and make those plays, smoothest kid I ever saw, and I don't know what the hell happened to him. You get in the minors, and I guess you can disappear real fast.")

Joe DeMaestri never disappeared. First as a Kansas City Athletic, then as a New York Yankee, he was one of the finest American League shortstops of the middle fifties and very early sixties and they were crazy about him in K.C., were very few people go crazy with affection over anybody.

Today, he hardly ever sees a baseball game, plays some golf, and is currently wrapped up in basketball and works with his father Sil DeMeastri as a partner in their Budweiser-Falstaff beer distributing company. His son, Joe Jr., who looks remarkably like his father, is a basketball star at Novato High School, only a junior, and that accounts for Joe Senior's current interest in basketball.

"I think I did about everything I could in baseball," Joe says. "I was very fortunate to play when I did. Oh, I missed it for a while. I've run into Roger Maris at a convention two years ago. But mostly, I really don't have much to do with baseball. I've seen maybe two or three games out here."

(The voices crank up again, digging into the past, over the beer and kameradshaft. "You know, Hank told me once, he had to go against Herb Score and he said there's never been anything or anyone faster." — "Naw, there was some Indian pitcher in semi-pro ball, you never seen anything like it. They called him chief or something like that, like you would with an Indian, but he could throw that ball. Faster than Score, even.").

Palacio was the youngest golfer to ever win the California State Amateur Golf Championship, back in 1936. At a lively 53,

Scouts Drooling Over Novato Baseball Whiz

But the long drought may soon be over when San Jose State College opens its 1970 baseball season Feb. 16 and unleashes shortstop and team captain Tom Corder of Novato.

TOM CORDER

This guy has big league tattooed all over him. His physique reminds you of Marty Marion or Hal Lanier and he has that effortless grace of Fred Astaire. He could play shortstop in mid-Pacific without getting his feet wet. He seems to float when he moves.

In short, Corder has all the tools of a great shortstop. And with hands like that, said one pro scout, "He could be a pickpocket or surgeon or pianist. You shake hands with him then check your valuables and appendix, all the while humming 'A Walk Through the Black Forest' by Horst Jankowski."

The same scout told me: "You'd hate to share the same boarding house table with Tom. You'd starve to death against a guy with that reach."

I'm told that San Jose may have to charge a 20 per cent amusement tax if Corder doesn't quit picking up ground balls and throwing rabbits to first base.

And, the beautiful part about Tommy Gun is that he belabors the bejabbers out of the ball. Most shortstops have to pay admission to get a turn at bat but Corder strokes the ball with the authority of an outfielder.

'He'd Be No. 1 Or 2 In Country'

"No doubt," said Atlanta Braves scout Joe Anselmo last season," Corder's junior year at San Jose, "if Tom were draftable now he'd be picked number one or two in the country." He referred to the major league talent draft.

But Corder will never see the 1970 draft in mid-June. The minute he concludes his senior season on May 16 the lanky Novatan becomes a free agent and is a cinch to be signed and sealed by a major league club with the most money to offer.

Although San Jose's first game isn't until Feb. 16, there have been big league scouts at every practice session to date getting acquainted with the young man who is expected to lead the Spartans to their first winning season since 1961.

Said Tom's father, Dick: "I don't know if he has a preference among pro teams. He hasn't discussed it with me. But he's meeting a new scout every day."

Most Valuable Player In WCAC

But if Tom lives up to his 1969 statistics his glove and bat will publicize themselves. Last year, when San Jose won 16 and lost 19 games, Corder was the Most Valuable Player in the West Coast Athletic Conference. The 6-foot-1, 175-pounder batted .350 and .395 in WCAC play, smashed seven home runs, eight doubles, two triples and drove in 28 runs while scoring 24.

Unanimously elected captain by his teammates, the Novato star also stole five bases in five tries, compiled a slugging percentage of .585 and an astronomical .724 in league action.

Tom, who spent last summer employed in the advertising department of the Independent-Journal, will remain in advertising next summer. But this time his flannel suit will have numbers on it.

Debbie Is After More Gold

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Debbie Meyer isn't content to be the 1969 Female Athlete of the Year. She's already set her sights on the swimming medals in the 1972 Olympic Games.

Mis Meyer, 17, received a trophy at a dinner Tuesday night representing her choice as the top female athlete as chosen in the 39th annual Associated Press poll.

Miss Fleming said she turned the honor over to Debbie "with respect as well as affection because I know those gold medals don't come easily."

The constant question has been whether she will shoot for more medals in 1972 in Munich, Germany.

Sherman Chavoor, coach of the Arden Hills Swim Club where Debbie swims and coach of the women's Olympic team, said, "I think we'll win as many gold medals next time as they did this time."

The silver trophy honoring Miss Meyer was presented by George Zaharias, the former wrestling champion who donated it in memory of his late wife, Babe Didrickson Zaharias, five-time winner of the female athlete-of-the-year title.

Another telegram came from President Nixon who said, "I wish you many more successes in the years ahead and I also express appreciation for the splended way in which you have represented the nation throughout the world."

Petaluma Rampage: 102 Points

That's just what Petaluma High did yesterday in taking over sole possession of first place in the North Bay League I. It was Vallejo High School on the losing end, 102-59.

The victory in which the Trojan starters sat out most of the second half, gave Petaluma a 6-2 league record and a half-game edge over Montgomery of Santa Rosa. The Trojans shot 70 per cent, six of the players reaching double figures. Even Gilmore led the way with 18 points.

In a pair of North Bay League II GAMES Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) edged El Molino of Forestville 55-54 and Sonoma nipped Analy of Sebastopol 67-66.

In junior varsity games, Petaluma topped Vallejo 72-68 and Rancho Cotate defeated El Molino 46-27.

Determined Man, That Pete Brown

He's the product of the caddy ranks on segregated courses in the South, of assistant jobs at little-known clubs, up from the qualifying ranks and a victor over polio.

Brown, one of the few Negroes on the pro golf tour, ended 17 years of obscurity when he caught the nation's fancy last week with a gripping charge that swept him past Jack Nicklaus and England's Tony Jacklin in the Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

A national television audience watched him swing a club in apparent nervousness as he waited for Jacklin to tee off in the first hole of their sudden death playoff for the $30,000 first prize.

"It wasn't that, being nervous, so much as I've got to keep moving or my muscles stiffen up," Brown said.

That's a hold-over from a polo attack that had Brown bedridden for about 12 months in 1956-57. He still has muscular trouble in his back, arms and legs, "just all over," he said.

"I have to take off about every fourth week or so for a rest Brown explained.

At 35, he has been a pro since age 18 and has been on the tour since 1963. But he was an unknown until he came out of the pack with that Sparkling, seven-under-par 65 on the final round at San Diego.

He had to wait while Nicklaus and Jacklin finished, each with a chance to tie him. Nicklaus failed on the final hole, missing a four-foot putt. Jacklin made it, but bogeyed the first extra hole and Brown had his second title and biggest payday ever.

"It was a great day for the home team," said Lee Elder, another Negro who came to prominence two years ago when he took Nicklaus to five extra holes, also before a national television audience, before losing in the American Golf Classic.

He won only $920 his first year, then followed with his biggest season. He became the first of his race to win on the pro tour with a triumph in the Waco Turner Open, a victory that brought him only $2,700.

Brown, the father of four daughters, made $21,796 that year, but slipped to $9,441 the following season and didn't make more until last year, when he won $20,893 in 36 tournaments.

Brown, one of the gallery favorites today in the first round of the $125,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic, was born in Mississippi and learned his golf as a caddy on a formula of "play three holes and run."

"We'd get out real early, six or seven in the morning before anybody else was there, or just before dark, play three holes and run," he recalled.

He suffered a back injury in 1965 that knocked him out of the tournament of champions and has hampered his play for some time.

"But it feels fine now," he said. "Just fine. That $30,000 works a lot of cure."

Bettors Get Their Chance

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — After a strike that lasted more than a month, the winter harness racing season finally began at Bay Meadows Tuesday and nearly one-quarter million dollars was bet by the 4,093 customers.

A strike of pari-mutuel employes began Dec. 26 and ended last Sunday. Bay Meadows will be able to get in 18 days of racing instead of the 43 that were planned.

The $241,082 bet Tuesday compared with $209,155 bet at the opening of the meet last season, but that was a night-time program.

The winning payoff was $10.40, $5.40 and $3.80. Express Z. was second and paid $9.80 and $6 while Willow Prince paid $6.60 to show.

MULLINS THIS TIME

Warriors Need More Bandages

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors think Al Attles is going to make a fine coach, but what they really need are more bandages and liniment.

"The longer he's with us the more we'll play like the Knicks —team defense, moving the ball on offense," said Jeff Mullins, paying Attles this year's supreme compliment after the Knicks rolled past the Warriors 118-98 Tuesday night for their ninth straight National Basketball Association victory.

PROBLEM

The main problem, however, is keeping enough players healthy to have a team, and the Warriors barely made it against the Knicks.

The Warriors have a day of rest today before returning to the court tomorrow against the Bulls in Chicago.

With Nate Thurmond already out for the year and Jerry Lucas finally back after missing a number of games through injury, the Warriors lost starters Mullins and Clyde Lee by halftime when the Knicks held a 62-47 spread.

26 REBOUNDS

Reed finished with 21 points, 17 in the final half, and a personal season high 26 rebounds, while Walt Frazier had 20 points, 19 in the first half.

Still, the Knicks were impressed with the ever-battling Warriors.

"It's tough to lose guys like Mullins," said Coach Red Holzman, whose front-running Knicks have had very few injury problems. "The Warriors still made it uncomfortable."

Mullins explained the Warriors health troubles as a "freak."

"Every team has injuries," he said. "Nate might be injury prone, but the rest is just coincidental."

Attles, 2-2 as a coach since taking over for fired George Lee, also refused to buy that snake bit stuff.

'NOT SNAKE BIT'

"I have to convince them that we're not snake bit'," he said. "We can't let self pity creep in. Nate is not coming back and Jeff is out. The guys on the floor are just going to have to play. I don't want them getting down on themselves.

"Getting back from 20 to within nine points without Lee and Mullins against the best team in the league was a good effort. We could have lost by 40, you know."

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Anglers Need Safety

More boats are probably bought for fishing than for any other specific reason. Surveys conducted at boat shows give this reason as the second most frequently given used excuse for buying a boat. (The number one reason is that a boat provides family recreation.)

But many boats—particularly small ones—are bought for fishing without adequate attention to safety. The fatality figures relating to boating accidents show the largest, single, identifiable group to be the anglers or sport fishermen. Safety officials say many of them are on the list because their boats or motors were inadequate or unsuited for the demands put on them.

Also the statistics show the risks to be greater on inland protected waters. Fewer men, it seems, venture out on the ocean in small inadequate crafts.

BUT IT'S NOT at all unusual to see light fishing craft, car toppers, or small trailer boats out on large bodies of inland water where they have no business being in bad weather.

Now I have asked scores of ardent fishermen what they consider the quality most needed to make a boat safe for angling. . .not convenient or easily handled, but safe.

Most of them agree that it is BEAM.

ALSO IT WAS POINTED OUT to me that a wide boat is a lot more comfortable to be in for any length of time. It is easier to move around, to cast and to load gear because extra width means extra stability.

THE BOAT WHICH SEEMS to give the angler the greatest possible mobility and range is the aluminum car topper. It's lightness allows it to be carried by two men even up to a mile over rough country to otherwise inaccesible fishing grounds.

But this brings us back to the question of safety. Some car top boat manufacturers have skimped on beam to cut prices and save weight. A safe, comfortable fishing boat should have a beam approaching 60 inches. Yet I have seen some boats only measuring 46 inches wide . . . they are downright dangerous.

GOLF NOTES

A New Idea In Greens Fees At Rohnert Park

Rohnert Park Municipal Golf Course has come up with something new in the way of greens fees.

The new approach is designed for business and company use in recognition of "the importance of recreation in business relations and employee incentive programs," according to Rohnert Park pro Bob Porter.

What it amounts to is an Annual Commercial Green Fee card issued to a company, and costing $225 annually. The card may be transferrable among four company members and its cost is fully deductible as a business expense.

Bill Miller and Victor McKinnon won the Scotch Twosome Tournament Sunday with a net 24, ahead of runnersup Tom Clack and John Hinderson and Barrett Lewis and Ron Rasmussen, who came in at 29. In the same tourney, Bob Albright won the hole in one event, coming to within 15 inches.

McKinnon, incidentally, is from San Rafael.

THE PEOPLE at Meadow Club near Fairfax must have been feeling like ushers at one of those old neighborhood movie houses that turned into supermarkets. The club finally reopened for business and games Saturday after being closed down for 16 straight days as a result of the recent heavy rains.

MARIN COUNTRY CLUB men's golf club of Novato has elected a new slate of officers for 1970.

The new president is O. D. Oliphant. Other officers include John Hourihan, vice-president; Ralph Patterson, secretary; Al McConnell, treasurer; Stan Mertel, handicap chairman, and Carl Johnson, greens and rules chairman.

Oliphant and his missus tied for the club's mixed foursome sweeps Saturday along with Messers and Mesdames Johnson, Joe Davidore and Charles Smith.

Mrs. Eugene Philbin won the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club's Club Trophy while in the club's point par tournament, Mrs. Robert McDonnald took Class A honors with 32 points, Mrs. Philbin was high in Class B with 33 points and Mrs. Hugh Cavalli topped Class C entrants with 28 points.

Deadline Approaching For Pilots

COMBINED AP & UPI

SEATTLE — The businessmen's group trying to buy the American League Pilots have only three days remaining to raise another $2 million to swing the deal.

American League club owners will meet again in Berkeley, Friday to decide the fate of the financially ailing Pilots. The league has given the new businessmen's syndicate in Seattle until Friday to come up with the $9 million total needed to buy the Pilots from Pacific Northwest Sports, Inc.

In other baseball news:

NEW YORK — Federal Judge Irving Cooper, likening himself to an umpire, has given attorneys of both sides 20 days to file additional papers in the suit against baseball by Curt Flood.

Judge Cooper heard arguments yesterday in U.S. District Court concerning Flood's request that baseball be enjoined from preventing him to act as a free agent.

Judge Cooper compared himself to an umpire who "calls them as he sees them."

"That I shall do," he said. "You've thrown the ball to me—I hope I don't muff it."

REDWOOD CITY — Willie McCovey, star first baseman for the San Francisco Giants, was named yesterday the West Coast Professional Athlete of the Year.

SAN DIEGO — The San Diego Padres have announced the signings of four players including third baseman Bobby Etheridge, for the National League's 1970 season.

General Manager Eddie Leishman said yesterday that Etheridge, acquired from the San Francisco Giants, joined returning pitchers Dan Coombs, and Leon Everitt and infielder Van Kelly in signing contracts.

Basketball

SAN FRANCISCO — Junior forward Curtis Rowe of unbeaten and top-ranked UCLA, led a parade of four Bruins today in the basketball scoring race of the Pacific 8 Conference.

Rowe edged past injured California sophomore center Ansley Truitt to take the scoring lead with an 18.8 average. All five UCLA starters are averaging better than 10 points per game in the conference and four of them are ranked among the league's top 13 scorers.

Seals To Host Montreal Hockeymen

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals, just two points away from fourth place in the National Hockey League's West Division despite two disappointing defeats last weekend, meet the Montreal Canadiens in the coliseum tonight at 8 o'clock.

The Seals are in fifth place, just two points behind the Minnesota North Stars and only three behind the third-place Pittsburgh Penguins.

The last time Oakland played the Canadiens, the Seals shut out the defending Stanley Cup champions 3-0 in Montreal, playing possibly their best game of the season.

Five Cubs Sign

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs announced today the signing of pitchers Hank Aguirre, Ken Johnson and Ron James and outfielders Willie Smith and Jimmie Hall.

Carlos Shooting For Moon

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Olympic sprint champion John Carlos, the current world's fastest human, has his bargaining strategy all mapped out for his negotiations with the Philadelphia Eagles about becoming a pro football player.

He is asking $1 million to play ball with the Eagles and if they want to play ball with him, "they can take it from there."

STRATEGY

"I can't see starting at $400,000 and working up to $ "so I start at $1 million and work down."

Carlos, who was drafted by the Eagles despite never having played football at San Jose tSate College, made his strategy known during a luncheon at which the upcoming San Diego Indoor Games were the main topic.

He said not playing college ball would help rather than hurt him.

"I played a lot of street ball and that's more valuable...you take more knocks nd fall on that concrete without shoulder pads or any protection."

TO 225 POUNDS

The 6-foot-3, 203-pound sprinter said he hoped to get his weight up to 225 for football.

"Then," he said, "anybody who grabs me, I'll just push him off."

Carlos told the luncheon that he has more going for him than other trackmen who have turned to football because his mental attitude is superior.

"I don't think I can be beat unless I want to be beat," he said. "There ain't no way in the world they're going to stop me."

NOT EASY

He said this would not come easy, however, because pro football defenders are good at their jobs. "I'm going to have to know my job twice as good. I'm going to run just scared enough to get away."

Carlos said he would rather be a running back than a receiver although he feels he has good hands and can catch the ball.

THE SPORTING GENTRY

Skiing Samaritan

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A quick glance in the garage of his home high atop the San Rafael hills, 95 Oakmont Avenue, and you see ski equipment, aqua lung and tank, a canoe, backpacking equipment, racing bicycles.

The 44-year-old Neuhaus is one of those skiers you want to see if you are all busted up somewhere on a ski slope. He's a member of the National Ski Patrol, his unit being the Sugar Bowl Patrol, named the outstanding patrol unit in the country last year.

TWO CHILDREN

Neuhaus, who sports a bright red beard, and his wife, Wilma (Willie), are both natives of San Francisco, moving to Marin 17 years ago. They have two children, son Mark, 15, and daughter, Nikki, 13.

A representative for a women's sportswear company with offfces in San Francisco, Neuhaus started skiing at 27 and promptly broke his right leg the first day on skis. He kept at it and in the next few years broke his left ankle twice.

That's when he decided to take a lesson and learn the sport the right way. To learn proper skiing today, a person needs more than just one lesson, says Neuhaus, because the American technique being taught is a combination of many different styles of skiing.

sport," he said about being in the volunteer organization.

15 YEARS

He's been in the Ski Patrol for the past 15 years. "It really makes you feel you are contributing to the sport," he said about being in the volunteer organization

The high part of his years in the patrol was in the 1960 Olympics at Squaw Valley when he was selected to be part of the Olympic Ski Patrol. "We worked our tails off," he said about those four weeks on the job. "We were up at 5 a.m. and didn't get to bed until 10 or midnight."

Neuhaus has seen the requirements for Ski Patrol members toughen during the years. Members are required to take 16 hours of first aid per year, plus ski proficiency tests. Neuhaus is a ski proficiency and toboggan handling instructor for the patrol.

Although the Ski Patrol is growing as more people begin skiing, Neuhaus feels it isn't growing enough. More of the young people of the ski world are going in for racing, rather than trying to become members of the patrol, he says.

As he found out the hard way, Neuhaus says anyone who wants to begin skiing should take at least one lesson. "Many of the injuries we get are people who don't know how to ski and just start out on their own to learn," he said.

He also said many novices begin tobogganing down the hills because they think it is not as dangerous as skiing. "They're wrong," he said. "Tobogganing is about three times as dangerous as skiing."

The Ski Patrol was originated in 1937 by Minot Dole, a skier who broke both legs near Vermont and took more than four hours to crawl back for help. He decided right then and there something had to be done so he and four others started the patrol.

And it must be quite a sight when you're lying injured in the snow and see Neuhaus or someone like him come skiing up in that identyfying red parka with the yellow cross on back.

Marinites In Hall Of Fame

he's still playing and winning at golf, in between his work as an auto salesman for Nelson Buick in San Francisco. He's still club champ at Sonoma Golf Club. But today, he'd like to help some good, clean-cut youngster get started.

"I'd like to be able to give some good kid, and there are a lot of them, the benefit of my experience, what I know, I think I could really help somebody," he said. "He'd have to be some clean-cut youngster who has the desire to make it."

("You know, there was a kid on our college team, I don't think he weighed more than a 150 pounds if you hung him upside down in a shower dripping wet, but he was the meanest little bugger I ever saw. He hit me so hard once in a practice, for God's sake, that I had a charleyhorse for two weeks.")

Schallock's baseball career as a pitcher is long over and it took him from the minors to the majors (Yankees, Baltimore, etc) and back again in the 1950's.

"At first, after I quit, I'd feel funny when the season rolled around," he says. "But not any more. I still golf a lot for excercise, but right now, my golf bags are in the closet."

Between jobs now, the capable, handsome Schallock thinks the yearly hall of fame get together is a great thing.

"It's a wonderful thing. somebody to take the time an effort to do this," he said. "I really great to get together w all the people, seeing them. A I'm honored to be selected."

And if you drop in (no gi remember) you can probably right in the middle of a wh pack of athletic recollection even if the real stove is there.

Wikel

Do you use your car for business or for charitable purposes or for medical purposes?

If you do, you can claim your expenses for the use of your car on a flat mileage basis, rather than having to compute depreciation, gas, oil, tires, etc., and then divide this between business and personal.

This is the way it works: For business use, you are allowed 10 cents per mile for the first 15,000 business miles and seven cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

You only keep a record of the business miles traveled for your car but like every record you keep, you must be able to substantiate the fact that the car was used for business and the number of miles traveled.

NO DEPRECIATION

You cannot use this system and also claim depreciation on your car.

You cannot use this system if you have previously taken extra first year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have previously depreciated the car by one of the accelerated methods.

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer and this reimbursement is less than 10 cents a mile, you may include the reimbursement in income and deduct the 10 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and seven cents a mile thereafter.

WRONG SYSTEM

If your reimbursement is in excess of 10 cents a mile, but not more than 15 cents a mile, you wouldn't want to use this system, but you do not have to account for your automobile expense because you are considered to have accounted to your employer for the expense. If your reimbursement is in excess of 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expenses.

You can use this system and in addition deduct parking fees and bridge tolls.

Some commuting expenses are deductible. There is no deduction for home to work and back. However, if your are working out of town and stay in a hotel you can deduct the round trips between the hotel and work.

THEN DEDUCTIBLE

If you use your home for your office, and go directly to various jobs or to customers, then your automobile expense is deductible.

If you carry heavy tools, etc., from your home to work at various jobs since you cannot use public transportation, you can deduct your car expenses if you would not use your car except to carry heavy tools, etc., which you cannot store at your work.

If you have two jobs and drive from home to job 1, from job 1 to job 2, and then home, driving expenses from job 1 to job 2 are deductible. Home to job 1 is not deductible and neither is the trip home. Also, if you go to school after work, it's just like job 1 to job 2 above.

INVESTING

Why Gold Has Lost Its Glitter

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 75 and hold 104 shares of Homestake Mining at an average cost of $25 a share. Is this a lost cause or should I continue to hold?
—E.S.

A. Gold speculation, which reached its peak last summer when free gold hit $44 an ounce, has since suffered a sharp reversal. Recent quotes at slightly below the official $35-an-ounce level reflect the scarcity of buyers willing to absorb gold being dumped by disillusioned speculators. Gold's long-standing monetary tie is quietly but effectively being loosened and commercial usage of gold has not grown as rapidly as in other precious metals. These factors will continue to exert pressure on free-market gold at least for the intermediate term.

Homestake, producer of one-third of the U.S. domestic gold, derived 64 per cent of 1968 profits from this source. In 1968 receipts averaged $39.71 an ounce as compared with production costs of $33.55. Mounting costs and dropping prices which have eaten into profits show no immediate signs of reversal, limiting prospects for 1970. For a young person this type of speculation might be a worthwhile long-term gambit. At your age I would sell and invest in a situation with more immediate possibilities.

Q. I am 50 and would like to start an investment program to supplement Social Security after I retire. With little or no initial investment, limited stock market knowledge and $50 per month to spare, what would be my best choice: real estate, mutual funds or the stock market?
—W.H.

A. Down-payment requirements and record interest rates on mortgages make real-estate investment unattractive for you. I would also refrain from embarking on a stock investment program until you increase your knowledge of the stock market. In the meantime you should build capital through monthly purchase of a mutual fund. Among the top 15 funds over the last five years, four requiring small initial investment are: Channing Special Fund, Colonial Equities, Drexel Equity and Enterprise Fund.

Stock Market Rally Hit; Trade Moderate

The spark for Tuesday's surge was provided by a remark of Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy that interest rates might be lowered sooner than people realized.

While the comment triggered a short buying burst; it could not override investor worries about a business recession and power corporate earnings for 1970, analysts said.

Late Big Board prices included.

Reordering Of Priorities —But At Very Slow Pace

President Nixon, in presenting his budget for next fiscal year, noted: "For the first time in two full decades, the federal government will spend more money on human resources than on national defense."

The President justifiably took some pride in this.

Examined closely, however, the proposed budget increases for human resources are rather small—as are the cuts in military spending.

The military budget totals $71,191,000,000 — just shy of 72 billions. That is down $5,310,000,000 from the current year.

BUT THAT FIGURE does not include funds for foreign military assistance, the Atomic Energy Commission, Selective Service, stockpiling of strategic materials, etc. When these are added, the total budget for war and war-related purposes totals $73,583,000,000.

It includes one and one-half billions for the antiballistic missile system which was so hard fought last year. This is an increase from the current year's spending.

IT INCLUDES further development of a new "super" bomber for the Air Force. It includes three high-speed nuclear submarines, a new kind of nuclear-powered guided missile frigate, and a new class of antisubmarine destroyers for the Navy.

It includes an unspecified amount for the war in Vietnam. No figures were given in order not to reveal the President's time-table for withdrawal. Since the total military budget declined by only a little over $5 billion, however, it appears obvious that it does not call for anything approaching complete withdrawal from Vietnam in the next fiscal year.

NOR DID THE MILITARY suffer all the cuts in a budget that is still higher than any in history, for the first time exceeding $200 billion. (The total budget just 10 years ago was under $78 billion; in 1945, the last year of World War II, it was $44.5 billion.)

Cut out completely, in order to bring the huge budget into precarious balance, were the children's milk program, the grants to land grant colleges that help keep costs down for students in state colleges and universities throughout the nation, federal grants for much-needed hospital construction.

PRESIDENT NIXON'S much-heralded program to save the environment seems rather paltry when the figures for it are compared with those for arms: $423 million for matching grants to communities building waste treatment plants; $104 million to help enforce clean air standards; $75 million to buy urban parks.

Congress last year voted $800 million for water pollution control. Although President Nixon in his State of the Union message said this is a project the government can complete within five years to save the environment, his budget shows for it a $322.5 million carryover of funds unspent this year.

THE PRESIDENT'S WORDS about saving the environment, about "the necessary process of reordering our priorities," somehow lose a good deal of their meaning when the actual figures are examined.

There is a reordering of priorities. But like the withdrawal from Vietnam, it seems to be a very slow one.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Six-Billion Budget Proves Anew State Is Out To Bankrupt Self

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — California's 1970-71 budget will be submitted to the state legislature this week, committing the citizens of the state to another huge expenditure of more than six billion dollars of tax money.

As the budget comes before the legislature, two things are apparent.

One is that there is no hope of future reduction in the state budget, either this year or in any forseeable period.

The other is that the state budget will increase annually until government succeeds in bankrupting itself, and along with it, the people of the state.

A CONSERVATIVE family, finding itself on the verge of overspending, retrenches, cuts itself back to necessities, and either earns more money to maintain its standard of living, or slightly lowers the standard to assure circumvention of bankruptcy. It may borrow money to tide it over the hump, but will not over-borrow to satisfy its whimsies.

Unfortunately, a relatively conservative state, with a governor who is doing everything possible from his own angle to "cut, trim and squeeze" — as he termed it three years ago when taking office — has been unable to effectuate this policy.

The people of California gradually are waking up to the fact that the days of plenty and having everything everybody wants are coming to an end. The governor has brought this to their attention in his attempts to cut down on expenditures, even though those attempts have not accomplished much.

THE REASONS why spending keeps on increasing, over and above the ratio to population increase, are the same as in the past. The first is that the public has succumbed to the propaganda of educators, and furnish plush educations for the state's youth, and second, the public over-spends for welfare, and supports myriads of people who should be earning a living.

Until and if the public recognizes over-spending in both of these fields, and makes a definite demand on the legislators for appropriations governed by reason rather than politics, the annual budget will keep going up and up, year by year, until eventually, government will be taking more out of the earnings of its citizens than the citizens get themselves.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Man has measured the distance from the earth to the stars; he has weighed them, he has even analyzed their composition. And man has made war. I know of no more striking symbol of the disparity of this creature who is capable at the same time of so much genius and so much stupidity. — Michael Corday.

No Ballot On End To No-Strike Clause

Your Jan. 3 editorial stated "Slogan For The 70's: 'Tell It Like It Is'."

Your Jan. 31 Sacramento Roundup by Capitol News Service stated, "The no-strike clause of the California State Employees Association was cancelled last week by an overwhelming vote of the membership."

As a member of said organization, I received no ballot in that regard...

Alaska Movie Rates 'XXX'

As an avid outdoorsman and sportsman, I feel justifiable on commenting and criticizing the movie "This Is My Alaska".

I have never seen or heard of a more blood-thirsty and gorey movie concerning the out-of-doors and hunting. It would be better shown as a visual aid program for a butchers' school.

We speak and stress today of ecology and wild life conservation. "This Is My Alaska" does not help promote this great cause at all.

If it was also meant to promote the State of Alaska in any way, this particular film does not do so in my estimation.

Words Left Out, Distorting Meaning

Some words were dropped from a letter by W. S. Richards in this column Jan. 31 which distorted the meaning.

Richards wrote that Governor Reagan "has consistently warned that taxes cannot be controlled or reduced unless government expenses are controlled." All of the sentence after the word "reduced" was left out. We regret this omission.

Citizens Pleased With Reed Board

We are all so pleased with the fine progress the Reed School District is making with the new board members. Mr. Gordon Wright is doing an exceptional job—devoting his time and effort for a community project that needs to be done. He is bringing continuity to the district, where in the past none seemed to exist before his election to office. We do appreciate his devotion to duty and the extra hours of work.

Hospital Report Branded Inaccurate

Your article on page 16 of the Thursday paper (Jan. 29) titled "Hospital's Woman Chief Loses Job" was biased and inaccurate. The (Hillcrest Hospital) board meeting Tuesday night was not a closed session. It was open to the public and over 75 people attended it.

At the meeting the chief of staff and over one-half of the doctors were there and disagreed with the dismissal. The Hillcrest doctors were not consulted prior to the discharge of Mrs. (M. Loree) Smith and felt it was a flagrant breach of ethics.

The entire matter was a power struggle to gain control of the board and was conducted in a secretive, furtive manner. In this article you have cast doubt on the administrative abilities of Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith has a distinguished record at Hillcrest over the last five years which included the construction of an entire $200,000 intensive care wing to Hillcrest. . .

Delayed Approval For Carl Brown

On Dec. 9, 1969, Carl Brown stood before the San Rafael Board of Education and delivered a thought-provoking statement relative to the deteriorating course education is taking today.

The future of our country lies in our youth. But, as Mr. Brown vividly described, the young mind needs guidance and counsel, which is being denied by the permissiveness of those in a position to guide. This attitude is breeding irresponsibility and immorality instead of leadership and moral accountability.

Carl Brown stands as a pillar of strength in a crumbling structure. He, along with other members of his profession, must be encouraged to continue his efforts to stem the tide of youth wasting. Therefore, nearly two months after his address to the board of education, we convey to Mr. Brown and his associates our assent, and we heartily urge them to continue the "climb back from this moment forward".

State College Job Semi-Retirement

My spies in Marin County have sent me copies of your editorial entitled "Some School Boards Fail To Get The Message." You are to be commended for your unswerving efforts to keep "school people" on their toes, however, your examples of malpractice are not always accurate. A case in point is your reference to my resignation as announced by Sup.(Anthony C.) Bacich last September. When Mr Bacich announced that I was resigning because of ill health he was telling the truth. At the present time I am still consulting a physician. I was in Europe almost up until the time of my resignation. It wasn't until I returned that I was advised by my physician to resign.

Coming to Fresno State College as an assistant professor of education is not to be considered a sign of good health. The fact is, to obtain a teaching position in the State college system all one needs is a normal temperature, many infirmities are discounted. My present position is tantamount to semi-retirement. . .

THE DRUMMONDS

President Of 1970 Far Different From Vice President Decade Ago

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

Is this the man in the White House today?

He's there all right–but it is not the Nixon of 1960. The world has changed radically. Nixon has changed radically. It isn't what has happened to Nixon that is important. It is what has happened to U.S. foreign policy during the first year of the Nixon presidency that is breath-takingly important. It breaks new and unexpected ground in nearly every direction.

THE MOST significant fact today is that the world has radically changed Nixon and that Nixon is pursuing a substantially new course in crucial areas of foreign policy.

It is nearly a 180-degree shift and the full magnitude of the changes becomes evident only when all the moves Nixon is making are brought into focus.

Here's the startling evidence:

Today he is acting to liquidate the cold war in atmosphere and in substance at every opportunity.

AS VICE PRESIDENT, Nixon was the leading advocate of the Eisenhower-Dulles era of confrontation with the Communist world.

DURING THE 1968 Democratic convention, Hubert Humphrey rejected the dove-sponsored minority plank favoring unilateral withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam and after the election President Johnson praised Nixon for "standing firm" on Vietnam.

Today Nixon looks very much like a peacemonger and he does not shrink from the term--whether it be praise or epithet.

IT IS PLAIN that the Richard Nixon of 1970 is not the Richard Nixon of 1960. But it would be unfair to conclude that the President has lightly abandoned past assumptions and policies he believed in that he has become "soft" on communism — Russian or Chinese—soft on defense and disposed to believe the United States should do little about keeping the world at peace.

The fact is that the world itself has changed substantially in the last decade and Nixon sees himself as meeting today's opportunities with attitudes and actions relevant to today's world. This premise he stated explicitly in his State of the Union message when he told Congress: "We have based our policies on an evaluation of the world as it is, not as it was 25 years ago."

Nixon is adapting to changing needs and changing times and is doing so with speed and thoroughness. He is moving with events and shaping them.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Row Over Committee Jurisdiction In Offing

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

For the present most of the friction and out-of-joint noses are in the Senate. There are some overtones, however, which could involve House committees in the controversy.

Under normal circumstances, committee jurisdiction — the activities and subject matter assigned—would rank as congressional housekeeping of little interest here. In this instance, however, the jurisdictional disputes arise from important national issues and involve top congressional figures.

MRS. SMITH has drafted two resolutions calling for a study of committee jurisdiction in the Senate. One of them would assign the study to the regular Senate Rules Committee. The other would assign the job to a special committee, created for that purpose. Mrs. Smith plans to offer both to make sure that a study is performed one way or another.

Mrs. Smith announced that she would address herself to the jurisdictional controversy last month after the Senate Appropriations Committee proposed a foreign aid bill before an authorization had been approved by the Foreign Relations Committee. The unauthorized appropriation originated in the House committee, and that fact was quickly noted in Senate debate.

DRAFT—Twice in recent years Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has held hearings on the military draft law before his Labor subcommittee of manpower. The subcommittee, and the parent Labor and Public Welfare Committee, have no authority over the military draft.

DISARMAMENT—In the hawks-vs.-doves controversy the already vague jurisdictional line between Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees has been all but erased. The talks with Russia on Strategic Arms Limitation have reduced this jurisdictional problem to its ultimate absurdity.

A special Armed Services subcommittee, headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., has been appointed to monitor the SALT talks. A Foreign Relations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., has announced that it will monitor the SALT talks. That could pose problems for SALT negotiators, who will also have to report to the Senate-House committee on Atomic Energy.

WEAPONS SYSTEMS—For months Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has been gathering headlines with an investigation of cost overruns on such weapons systems as the giant C-5A transport plane. Proxmire has managed to invade the jurisdiction of two Senate committees at the same time. Legislative responsibility for weapons systems is lodged in the Armed Services Committee, and investigating chores (with respect to such weapons as the F-111 fighter plane) have usually been performed by a Government Operations subcommittee.

PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Dixie School District Can Offer Lesson For Others

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Trustees and administrators of school districts that have been having trouble passing bond and tax issues (and they are legion) might learn a lesson from a 10-school elementary district in Marin County.

Last fiscal year, according to figures prepared by the California Teachers Association, only 35.7 per cent of the 227 bond issues proposed by school districts in the Golden State won the necessary two-thirds voter approval.

Just over half the tax increase proposals—which require only a simple majority—squeaked by last fiscal year: 51.1 per cent, according to the CTA's figures.

California Department of Education tabulations show 76 per cent of 1,556 bond issues proposed by school districts in the 1954-59 period passed. By fiscal 1968, the percentage was down to 45.1.

ONE OF THE issues in the 45.1 per cent that passed in fiscal 1968 was a $1.5 million authorization in Dixie School District, which has lots of children and low assessed valuation behind each of them, and which got its unusual name when it was organized by Confederate sympathizers back in Civil War days.

Passage of the $1.5 million issue did not surprise anybody in the Dixie district. It has never lost a bond, tax, or state loan election.

Its first bond issue, for $50,000, was approved in 1954—when Dixie was still a one-school rural district. The second, two years later, was for a cool million dollars. Then came a $1,600,000 issue in 1963, and the $1.5 million one in the fall of 1967—which passed by 1,477 "yes" votes to 330 "no."

Along with these went three state loan approvals, and four tax increase approvals, during the same period.

HOW DOES DIXIE do it?

One explanation is that it has a continuing citizen finance committee, set up in 1961. Instead of throwing together a new committee, of mostly uninformed citizens, each time a financial crisis threatens, Dixie has a committee constantly keeping track of its finances and ready to come up with facts and figures when more bonds or taxes are needed. In fact, the committee sometimes anticipates the school board on the need.

There's also another reason, which may be even more important. It was much in evidence at a recent meeting at which the board decided to call for election in April on another 50-cent tax limit increase, and on raising the interest rate on authorized but unsold bonds to 7 per cent.

THOMAS N. McNamara: "First we are going to levy the maximum overrides permitted by law, which we have not done heretofore. We should declare our intent to do that so the people will know the general purpose rate increase we're asking is not all that their taxes will go up."

Chairman Earl Koehler: "Make it quite clear in advance there will be an actual increase in tax payment due to levying the overrides, even if the voters do not approve the general purpose raise.

"We want to make it clear that although we are going to the voters for 50 cents, we may have to actually increase their tax rate by $1 by utilizing the overrides."

AND ON THE BOND conversion:

John M. Starkweather: "When the previous bond issue was authorized, we told the people it would not raise their taxes, because we were then on state aid and the state aid payments were adjusted as we increased our bonded indebtedness. We are no longer on state aid, so authorization to sell bonds at 7 per cent will mean an increase in taxes as they are sold. We must be sure everyone understands that."

How many school boards take pains to make sure they are not hiding any of the costs when they present tax and bond issues to the voters?

And how many of them have passed every such issue in the last 15 years?

The Dixie district has done the first—and that well may be the principal reason why it has been able to do the second.

Probation, Fine On Stealing Fixtures

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court has placed Carl Joel Teissler, 29, of San Rafael on six months' probation and fined him $95 for stealing neon light fixtures from a construction site of a Pacific Telephone Co. building.

High Court Goes Against Sinatra Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a 4-3 vote, the Supreme Court has declined to bar the arrest of singer Frank Sinatra for refusing to answer a subpoena from the New Jersey State Investigation Commission.

The court Tuesday turned down the plea of Sinatra's lawyer, Bruce W. Kaufmann, who said the subpoena was illegal and the commission unconstitutionally created.

Kaufmann said the singer would be faced with false and malicious statements connecting him with organized crime and racketeering if he were to answer the subpoena, issued more than six months ago.

Andrew Phelan, executive director of the State Investigation Commission, said the court's action meant the agency is free to decide if Sinatra's case should be referred to a county prosecutor's office in New Jersey.

A warrant issued Oct. 14 for Sinatra's arrest was to compel him "to answer a petition charging him with contempt." Kaufmann said the commission later indicated it intended to seek immediate indictment of Sinatra on criminal contempt charges in order to bring extradition proceedings.

Manson Says He's Not Big Enough To Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles M. Manson, leader of a hippie-type cult who is accused of conspiracy-murder in the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons, says, "I'm too small to be violent."

Manson, 35, was quoted in a copyright story in the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram Tuesday as adding:

"I weigh only 125 pounds and I learned a long time ago to keep my mouth shut and stay in my place."

Manson made a further disclaimer that he is a killer in a court document filed Tuesday in connection with the knife deaths last Aug. 10 of Mr. and Mrs. Leno LaBianca, wealthy market owners.

He and five members of his nomadic clan are charged in the LaBianca slayings and he and four others are accused in the gunshot-knifing murders the previous night of Miss Tate and four visitors to her rented mansion.

Two children of Mrs. LaBianca by a previous marriage —Susan Struthers, 23, and Frank L. Struthers Jr., 16— asked $2 million of Manson and his co-defendants in a wrongful death suit filed Jan. 22.

Manson, in response, declared in the document Tuesday: "The defendant has no information or belief sufficient to enable him to answer the allegations . . . and basing his denial upon that ground denies each and every allegation thereof."

In the newspaper story Manson was quoted as saying no members of his clan, which lived in communes in the San Fernando Valley and Death Valley, would back up a contention of co-defendant Susan Denise Atkins that he directed the killings.

The district attorney's office denied a statement attributed to Manson that Miss Atkins, 21, talked publicly and to a grand jury because the prosecution had threatened to take away her baby or that she was coached before giving testimony to the grand jury.

Miss Atkins was in court briefly Tuesday and won a delay of her trial date from Feb. 9 to March 20 on a plea by her attorney that he needed additional time to prepare her defense.
